WARREN COUNTY

Terry Lee Littlefield, 18, of Tiona, was found guilty on two counts of involuntary manslaughter. The charges developed from an accident last Sept. 5, in which two youths were killed.

Pennsylvania Electric Co. Friday gave assurances that transmission lines being built for the Seneca Power Station at the Kinzua Dam would be landscaped to blend with natural surroundings. The company said power generated in the plant will be transmitted to existing power lines on top of the mountain by two overhead lines.

Officials of the Allegheny National Forest are presently entertaining the only woman forester in the entire Eastern Region of the Forest Service. She is Stephanie La Bumbard, a Pennsylvania native, working as a public information specialist in the information and education division in Milwaukee.

Warren State Hospital is in need of trained personnel to fill a number of vacancies. For a story on the state hospital staff and opportunities for employment, see the feature in Allegheny Magazine on Page B4.

Warren County's 22 second-class townships are no longer faced with a limitation on the amount of taxes they may levy for parks and other recreational facilities.

Building projects in Warren County approved during November totaled over $237,000.

PENNSYLVANIA

The state Democratic policy committee has scheduled a meeting for Monday amid reports that Robert P. Casey and Auditor General Grace Sloan are to be endorsed for the offices of auditor general and state treasurer, respectively.

Congressman Albert W. Johnson, R-Pa., announced Friday that he would seek nomination as a candidate for re-election from the 23rd Congressional District, which includes Warren County.

Milk prices in the Erie marketing area will go up two cents a quart Feb. 1, the state milk commission announced Friday.

The fantastic story of the six Pennsylvania college students allegedly blinded by the sun during an LSD-induced trance isn't finished yet. State senator Benjamin Donolow said Friday he's "not altogether convinced it is a hoax." He thinks only two boys were blinded, however, not six.

The Western Pennsylvania Heart Association said Friday it is signing up potential donors for a heart transplant bank.

Governor Shafer signed a bill Friday that may make it possible for Warren to receive up to half the cost of a municipal swimming pool complex.

A bill to regulate the activities of rainmakers got Governor Shafer's reluctant approval Friday. He said he was signing it on the recommendation of the secretary of agriculture, although he had reservations about some of its provisions.

THE NATION

President Johnson announced Friday that he has chosen Clark Clifford to be the new Secretary of Defense. Clifford, an attorney, has been an advisor to presidents since Harry Truman. His appointment won quick endorsement from key members of Congress.

Sources said Friday that about $600 million in federal highway funds will be held back this calendar year.

Youngsville and Eisenhower were victorious on area courts, but Sheffield's cagers suffered their second defeat of the season. The Eagles whipped Tidoute, 81-61 and the Knights triumphed over Sparta, 59-52. Pleasantville upset the Wolverines, 70-61.

Youngsville's wrestling team was routed at Townville, 35-21. The Eagles managed to win only one match and added three forfeits for their points total. Page 6.

Make Bold Try to Capture Sea Prize

NEW YORK (AP) — An audacious band of Grand Bank fishermen watched the rescue of all 16 persons aboard the stricken Dutch freighter Ocean Sprinter Friday, then braved North Atlantic wind and wave to seize the derelict as a prize of the sea.

The 312-ton trawler, Zebriney, put men aboard the Ocean Sprinter and took her briefly in tow. But the line broke and the freighter, without lights, drifted allist through the blackness of the ocean night.

"We are waiting until morning and will put a line aboard again at dawn if the weather, permits," the Zebriney's skipper, Capt. James Chayter, told The Associated Press by radio telephone.

"Do you consider her a salvage prize?" he was asked.

"Yes," Chayter replied, "We only hope to God we get her in."

The drama of the little trawler boldly seeking to make captive a ship four times her size overshadowed the rescue of 15 men and one woman from the Ocean Sprinter after three days at the mercy of the cruel sea.

The tug Clyde was en route to the scene 245 miles off Newfoundland, commissioned to salvage the freighter. Capt. Chayter was asked if he would make way for the Clyde upon her arrival, or whether he would seek to retain his prize.

"If we get a towline on her," he replied, "under no circumstances would we give the tow line up."

The Zebriney is a 142-foot trawler out of St. John's, Newfoundland. She has 14 men aboard.

"We have been out eight days," Chayter said, "and we are heavy with fish. We have got to land by Monday because of our catch. If we can't get men aboard the Ocean Sprinter tomorrow because of the weather, we might possibly be leaving."

Chayter said the U.S. Coast Guard asked him to stand by after one of its cutters had a lifeboat smashed during the rescue of the Ocean Sprinter's crew.

However, all survivors were taken aboard the Coast Guard cutter, climaxing a chain of ill-fortune that plagued the Ocean Sprinter ever since she set out on a transatlantic voyage eight days ago from Prince Edward Island, a Canadian province in the gulf of St. Lawrence.

Two Announce 23rd District Candidacies

Congressman Albert W. Johnson, R-Pa., announced Friday he will run for re-election as representative from the 23rd Congressional District.

The Rev. Alan R. Cleeton, a Methodist minister in State College, Thursday announced he would seek the Democrat nomination for Congress in the 23rd district.

First elected in a special election in the fall of 1963, on the death of Leo Gavin, Johnson is completing his third term in Congress. He previously served 17 years in the state legislature where he was the Republican floor leader for nine years.

In Congress, Johnson is minority chairman of the subcommittee on postal rates, assistant floor leader to Gerald R. Ford and assistant Republican whip assigned to the states of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware. He is a member of the Banking and Currency Committee and the Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

Counties in the 23rd District are Cameron, Centre, Clearfield, Clinton, Elk, Forest, McKean, Potter, Venango and Warren.

Area Projects Cost Total Of $237,100

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)
HARRISBURG—Warren County's 22 second class townships no longer are faced with a limitation on the tax that may be levied for maintaining and operating parks and other recreational facilities.

Previously the law stipulated that such tax shall not exceed two mills. This stipulation now has been removed, under terms of legislation signed by the Governor, where the tax is to be used "for the purpose of maintaining and operating parks, playgrounds, playfields, gymnasiums, public baths, swimming pools and recreation centers."

And under terms of another piece of legislation applying to second class townships, now approved by the Governor, township supervisors are authorized to appropriate funds for mass transportation purposes from current revenues.

They are also permitted to make annual contributions to county departments of transportation or to urban mass transportation authorities "to assist the departments or the authorities to meet costs of operation, maintenance, capital improvements and debt service."

Clark Clifford Named As Defense Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clark Clifford, an adviser to presidents since Harry S. Truman, was chosen by President Johnson Friday to be the new secretary of defense.

Johnson said Clifford "helped put the place together" when the armed services were reorganized into a unified Defense Department after World War II. Appointment of the 61-year-old Washington attorney to succeed Robert S. McNamara at the Pentagon won quick endorsement from key Congress members.

Clifford's nomination to the Cabinet post will require Senate approval, and that seemed assured on the basis of Capitol Hill reaction.

In his new post Clifford will receive $35,000 a year.

Clifford has served as a consultant on diplomatic, intelligence and defense matters.

McNamara will become president of the World Bank and, Johnson told a news conference, he will be out of the Defense Department no later than March 1.

The President saw both Clifford and McNamara during the day and had words of strong praise for each.

Later Clifford came to the White House and had a news conference of his own at which he said he is in no position to answer questions on policy or substance in advance of Senate committee hearings on his nomination.

Asked how he characterized his position on Vietnam—whether he is a hawk or dove, Clifford replied:

"I am not conscious of falling under any of those ornithological divisions."

Yes, he said, he believed on some occasion or another Johnson had talked to him about some Cabinet post. Asked what made him change his mind, he smiled and answered:

"When the President of the United States looks you in the eye and says the time has come for you as a citizen of this country to assume this burden I don't think you turn it down."

Clifford said he has no detailed information on Pentagon operations at this point, but does not contemplate any changes in the administration of the Defense Department now.

He said he intends to "carry on the remarkable and unique accomplishments" of McNamara, whom he credited with coming close to the goals of the law which unified the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Clifford was one of the chief strategists of the campaign that won an upset victory for Truman in the 1948 presidential election. But he expects to be out of politics in his new position.

"In my opinion," he said "this is about as nonpolitical an appointment as President Johnson has ever made."

As for running for some office after his tour of duty as defense secretary, Clifford grinned and said:

"I'm 61 years old and I'm sure this will finish me off."

The Pentagon post has no set

Tiona Youth Is Found Guilty Of Involuntary Manslaughter

BY BETTY RICE
At 1 a.m. on Sept. 5, 1967, Terry Lee Littlefield of Tiona was 18 years old.

At 4:30 p.m. Friday, a jury of 11 men and one woman returned a verdict of guilty against Littlefield on two counts of involuntary manslaughter.

The charges against the Tiona youth were filed following an accident at 1 a.m. Sept. 5 on Route 62 in the Village of Akeley which claimed the lives of Charles W. Gerarde, 17 and Linda Darlene Harriger, 15, also from Tiona.

Following testimony presented all day Thursday and most of Friday, both District Attorney Samuel F. Bonavita and Defense Attorney Robert Wolfe admitted the case was difficult for both sides since, according to testimony, it involved minors traveling into New York State and able to secure alcoholic beverages.

Wolfe told the jury he "abhorred slaughter on the highways" and Bonavita, upon hearing the verdict, said he hoped it would prove a deterrent for others under the age of 21 from crossing the New York State border to purchase or drink alcoholic beverages. He noted the legal drinking age in the neighboring state is 18.

Commonwealth witnesses took the stand shortly after 9 a.m. Thursday.

State police trooper Mark Golomb, the first to arrive at the accident scene, stated he found inside the death car an empty wine bottle and three unopened cans of beer. He further stated he found two unopened cans of beer and three empties under the vehicle.

Littlefield, under direct examination by his attorney, told the jury that Gerarde had the bottle of wine when the trio started for New York State. The defendant stated neither he nor Miss Harriger drank any wine.

Under oath, Littlefield testified that he, Gerarde and Miss Harriger, whom Littlefield described as his girl friend, had driven to Frewsburg, N.Y., and at the Frewsburg Hotel, he and Gerarde had three or four draft beers. The defendant further stated he purchased a 12-pack and six pack of beer, 13 of which had been consumed prior to the fatal accident.

Photographs taken at the accident scene by photographer Gordon Mahan were introduced in evidence by Bonavita, despite objections to several by Attorney Wolfe. The pictures showed Littlefield several feet on the left side of the car or the driver's side and that of Gerarde at the right front or passenger's side.

All witnesses agreed that Miss Harriger was seated in the middle of the front seat when the accident occurred.

Defense attorney Wolfe, in his summation, charged the Commonwealth had failed to prove beyond reasonable doubt that Littlefield was driving the car

Newly-Signed Bill Could Aid Warren

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer signed legislation Friday implementing the $500 million conservation and recreation borrowing program approved in a voter referendum last May.

The measure was part of a six-bill package which was hailed by Shafer as one which "opened the door of the 21st century to the conservation movement in Pennsylvania."

The bill could make available $70,000 in state funds for Warren's proposed Oak st. swimming pool complex. The borough has made application for funds to cover up to 50 per cent of the overall cost of the project with indications that once the bill was signed, approval could be expected from the Department of Community Affairs. The pool contract has been signed with the understanding that work will not begin until the application for state funds has been approved.

The $500 million borrowing bill would allocate some $200 million to be used in this fashion: $150 million for control of water pollution and the restoration of abandoned strip mines on publicly owned lands; $25 million to check air pollution from abandoned culm banks on publicly owned lands; and $25 million for protection against surface subsidence and underground fires at abandoned mines.

Another $100 million would go to the Health Department for aid in the construction and improvement of municipal sewage treatment plants; $125 million to the Forests and Waters Department for the development of state recreation lands; and $75 million to the Community Affairs Department for matching grants of up to 50 per cent for

Report Plans For Cutback Of Highway $

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration will hold back about $600 million in federal highway funds this calendar year, sources said Friday.

Secretary of Transportation Alan S. Boyd would say only that no decision has been reached on the possibility he raised last October of deferring expenditure of part of this fiscal year's $4.4 billion in federal road money.

Announcement of the possible deferral at that time produced sharp replies from Congress and the nation's governors. The concern has revived recently as the administration approaches another battle with Congress over spending cuts.

Freezing some of the highway money would have no effect on the general budget. The money, which comes mainly from gasoline taxes, is held in a separate highway trust fund and can be spent only for highways.

But the administration has been trying to curb inflation, and heavy spending on highway construction adds to inflationary trends, officials explained.

Boyd told the governors in a telegram Oct. 9 that he was considering alternate reductions of $600 million, $1 billion or $2.2 billion.

GM Shutdown Said Possible

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union, striking three General Motors Corp. foundries, said Friday the giant automaker could be shut down nationally in a week or 10 days for opposing the union's demand for six minutes of wash-up time in foundries.

Woodcock said the chief stumbling block in reaching a the plant agreements with GM has been the company's refusal to grant a six minute pre-lunch washup period at foundries.

New Power Lines at Dam to Be Overhead, but 'Faded In'

(Editor's note: the following is a news release from Pennsylvania Electric Co.)

"Plantings and professional landscaping will blend transmission lines being built for the Seneca Power Station into the natural surroundings," C. L. McMillen, manager of Pennsylvania Electric Company's Warren District, said yesterday in outlining details of power line construction scheduled for the Kinzua area this year.

Electricity generated in the hydro station being built for Cleveland Electric Illuminating Company and Penelco will be transmitted to existing power lines on top of the mountain by two new overhead lines.

Distribution lines in the Allegheny National Forest, including those serving recreational facilities in the vicinity of the Complanter Bridge and Jakes' Rocks, have been placed underground.

"The decision as to whether new electric lines will be installed overhead or underground is one primarily of technical feasibility," McMillen said.

"Distribution lines, basically those operating at 12,000 volts or less, are installed underground as a matter of Penelco policy. Transmission lines, those which operate at higher voltages to move large amounts of power at a high degree of reliability, are installed overhead primarily because of technical limitations," McMillen said.

"Development of conductor insulation has not yet reached a point where transmission lines can be buried satisfactorily," McMillen stated in explaining that the type of soil conditions which exist on the mountainside add to the ordinary problems of underground construction. Cost of an underground installation would be more than ten times greater than overhead at this location. In addition repair of underground facilities is more difficult and time consuming than repairs of overhead facilities and it is necessary that Seneca power be available the maximum amount of time.

Right-of-way for the Seneca transmission lines will extend approximately 400 feet downstream from the power plant to a point along highway Route 59 from where it will take a diagonal path to a switching station adjacent to the impounding reservoir on top of the mountain. From this point a wooden pole line will be extended to Stoneham to connect with Penelco's existing 230 kilovolt network serving Northeastern Pennsylvania. See LINES, Page 2

Fierce Fighting Erupts Along DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — Fierce fighting broke out for the second consecutive day Friday along the demilitarized zone, where U.S. forces are tensed for an expected Communist offensive. New and heavy clashes were reported in other critical areas of South Vietnam.

An enemy force of unknown size plumed down a U.S. Marine force for about six hours just below the northern frontier. The U.S. Command said the Marines broke out and killed 23 Communists.

In troublesome Dinh Tuong Province in the Mekong Delta, a strong Viet Cong force attacked a battalion of South Vietnamese marines early Saturday. First reports said 14 government troops were killed and 60 wounded in the action 50 miles south of Saigon.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam Communist forces launched a rocket attack on U.S. facilities at Pleiku in the central highlands and a mortar assault on a base camp near Cu Chi, north-west of Saigon.

Three Marines were killed and 25 wounded in the DMZ battle near Gio Linh, three miles south of the zone.

Marines from a truck vehicle battalion plus a Marine infantry platoon were held down by heavy small arms and automatic weapons fire, the command said, and two additional platoons were lifted in by helicopter.

Early Saturday, 2nd Corps Headquarters at Pleiku, in South Vietnam's central highlands, and the new Pleiku airfield were pounded by rocket fire.

Woman Forester Handles Publicity

By FRANKLIN HOFF
Stephanie La Bumbard, a native Pennsylvanian, the only woman forester in the entire Eastern Region of the U.S. Forest Service, is a visitor on the Allegheny National Forest. She is a Public Information Specialist in the Division of Information and Education, in the Eastern Region headquarters in Milwaukee.
In spite of equal opportunity, there are very few women who elect forestry as a career. Besides Stephanie La Bumbard, there are a handful of women foresters in the far west.
Born at Danville, near Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, she went with her family, while a small child, to Canandaigua, N.Y., just west of Geneva. After completing high school there, she was graduated from New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse, N.Y. She then pursued graduate work at that institution, earning her degree of Master of Science in Forestry.
Stephanie entered the U.S. Forest Service on the Nicolet National Forest in Wisconsin, in the timber management. On the Eagle River District she did everything any forester is expected to do, including marking of timber, and timber stand improvement work.
As Allegheny National Forest supervisor, Lee Kelley, remarks, Stephanie was given equal employment opportunity, and equal work assignments as men. It was on the Nicolet forest she met her husband, Horace H. La Bumbard. He is presently in the division of Timber Management in the Milwaukee regional office.
Mrs. La Bumbard is presently working particularly in the Job Corps program.
She devoted the past few days to the Blue Jay Job Corps center. She is visiting thirteen different Job Corps centers located in the Eastern Region, comprising of 15 national forests ranging from New England, to West Virginia, Pennsylvania and other areas, to Wisconsin.
"We are trying to encourage more adequate use of radio, television and especially newspaper media by Job Corps people," she explains. "We are giving help and training in writing and photography." Mrs. Bumbard says that there are so many human interest stories in the Job Corps program of interest to all citizens. She is helping Job Corps centers develop material suitable to submit to newspapers, in the hope it will be printed.
This is Stephanie Bumbard's first visit to Allegheny National Forest. She is tremendously impressed by the valuable hardwood cabinet wood crop on the forest, especially the cherry. Her graduate studies were in forest genetics, and the work being done here on improvement of cherry timber is of great interest to her.
Asked how she became attracted to forestry, which women are obviously not invading in droves, Stephanie Bumbard says she was in the first place, always tremendously interested in the outdoors. She was interested in science and mathematics, and active in 4-H Club work. School advisors pointed out the possibility of forestry as a career, which she finally selected as her profession. She is very happy in it.

Draft Calls To Increase During 1968

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense officials predicted Friday the United States will draft 72,000 more men this year than in 1967.
This increase to an expected 302,000 total reflects the large numbers of men who were drafted during the Southeast Asia buildup of 1966 and will be leaving service this year.
About 230,000 men, or an average of about 19,100 a month, were called to duty last year. This year's average will reach around 25,100, although the March draft call already has been set at 39,000.

Trial

at the time of accident impact. Littlefield testified that in the area of Terrace Gardens, while the trio was en route home, he realized he was drunk and asked Gerarde to take the wheel. The defendant said he moved to the passenger side of his car and from that point on did not remember anything that occurred until he came to in the intensive care unit at Warren General Hospital.
Testimony by Commonwealth witnesses, however, indicated that Littlefield was conscious at the accident scene and when approached by eye witnesses Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Haven, said "Is it my fault? It is my fault?"
The Havens testified they were following the Littlefield car as it swerved from side to side on Route 62 shortly before 1 a.m., Sept. 5; finally passed it and then were subsequently passed by the defendant's car the latter traveling about 80 m.p.h. just before the crash.
Mr. and Mrs. Haven stated the car did not roll over but said they did not see the two (Littlefield and Gerarde) fly from the car.
Two ambulance drivers one from Russell and one from North Warren, testified that Littlefield, while en route to the hospital and at the hospital, said "It is my fault."
Trooper Gary L. Rain and Chief Deputy Sheriff Richard E. Hegerty, the latter serving as deputy coroner, stated they talked briefly to the defendant at the hospital emergency room following the accident after Littlefield had been properly advised of his constitutional rights. Both stated the defendant admitted he was driving the car.
Subsequent testimony introduced by the Commonwealth stated that on Sept. 7, Trooper Golomb, accompanied by Hegerty, talked to the defendant in the intensive care room at WGH. Hegerty stated that when he and Golomb entered the room, Littlefield told them to cry and said "What I told you the other night wasn't right. I think Gerarde was driving." When examined by his attorney and under cross examination, the defendant said he could not remember talking to Rain and Hegerty at about 2:30 a.m. after the accident and stated he did not remember his remark to Golomb and Hegerty.
Hegerty in rebuttal said the Sept. 7 visit was short and it was his suggestion, noting the defendant was upset, the officers leave.
Golomb and Hegerty further stated they had ascertained that Littlefield at this time had been advised of the deaths of his two companions. Littlefield stated during direct examination by his attorney he couldn't recall when he knew about the deaths.

Testimony revealed that when Golomb and Hegerty visited the defendant Sept. 7, a copy of the Warren Times-Mirror and Observer with the account of the accident was on Littlefield's bedside table.
A surprise witness yesterday, John Gerarde, brother of Charles, stated that sometime after 4 p.m. Sept. 6, the defendant called the Gerarde home and said he was sorry "I killed your brother."
Littlefield stated he made the call—that somebody (he said he couldn't remember who) told him to call. He stated, however, he said, "I'm sorry your brother was killed."
Police testified that on Sept. 5 Charles Gerarde did not have a valid driver's license and that his license was restricted "must wear corrective lenses." His glasses, his brother said, were at home at the time of the accident.
Defense attorney Wolfe charged the Commonwealth with failure to prove within reasonable doubt that his client was driving at the time of impact. He cited circumstantial evidence and asked why Golomb, at the scene, did not ask Littlefield if he was driving at the time of the accident.
Wolfe, in viewing Littlefield's remark—"Is it my fault?"—asked why his client would ask the question. The attorney noted that his client would be more apt to tell the truth at this time rather than later.
Wolfe charged the evidence presented by the Commonwealth was "spotty" not conclusive, and stated there was a very reasonable doubt as to who was driving the car when it hit the tree in question.
In his summation, the district attorney deplored immature youngsters going to New York State to drink and added it was unusual for the Commonwealth to secure as much evidence as it did in a case of this sort. He commended the good citizens willing to come forth and testify.
Bonavita pressed heavily on the fact that, according to testimony, the defendant started to change his original story after learning of the deaths of his two companions.
At one point, Wolfe asked about a remark by his client to the effect that Miss Harriger said "I have the wheel—let go." The defense attorney asked if this may have occurred as the death car first swerved off the highway before striking two trees.
A fourth jury convened Friday afternoon to hear the case of the Commonwealth vs. Edward Thornton on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and failing to identify himself. The case continues this morning.

State Democrats Pick '68 Ticket

HARRISBURG (AP) — The select Democratic Policy Committee scheduled a meeting for Monday to complete the task of selecting statewide candidates for its 1968 election ticket.
Authoritative reports circulating Friday indicated that former state Sen. Robert P. Casey of Scranton would be endorsed for auditor general with the incumbent, Mrs. Grace Sloan, to be nominated for state treasurer, a post she held from 1961-65.
State Treasurer Thomas Z. Minehart reportedly was prepared to step aside and seek reelection in June to another two-year term as Democratic state chairman.
Minehart has been dividing his time since 1966 between his political duties as party chairman and his official duties as state treasurer.
The nomination for the state Superior Court judgeship on the ballot reportedly was headed in the direction of Allegheny County Common Pleas Judge William F. Cercone, a member of the county court since 1956.
The Policy Committee, 65 members strong, recessed a meeting last Wednesday when the 48 members present could not reach accord on candidates for the three state posts.
What stalled the deliberations was the evident division between those who wanted to reendorse Mrs. Sloan and Minehart for another term, and those who wanted to turn to other candidates.

Heart Association Plans 'Heart Bank'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Western Pennsylvania Heart Association optimistically began signing up potential donors for a heart transplant bank Friday, but said it may be years before the bank becomes a reality.
John J. Griffith, an association official, indicated at a news conference the donor registration is designed to eliminate any legal obstacles that might crop up later when time would be a critical factor in an operating room.
The donor, thus, would have agreed in advance to give his heart. Upon his death, the heart could be removed and placed in the chest of a needy heart patient.
While announcing the drive to reporters, the association signed up its first volunteer, Mrs. Joseph M. Barr, the wife of Pittsburgh's mayor.
Griffith didn't know if it is the first heart donor campaign in the world. "I can say we have heard of no other heart registry," he said.
"We are requesting those who wish to sign up to notify us," he said, but he and other spokesmen stressed the campaign is only "in anticipation of a heart bank."
At State Hospital
Larry Wayne Hitt, 22, of 656 E 18th st., Erie, charged with the Jan. 12 armed robbery of Security Peoples Trust Co. in Erie was ordered to Warren State Hospital Wednesday for psychiatric examination. District Attorney William E. Padt confirmed that Hitt was transported to the hospital by sheriff's deputies on Wednesday.
Auditions Today
Auditions will be held at 2 p.m. today in the Jefferson Room of Warren Public Library for Warren Summer Theatre's production of William Inge's "Come Back Little Sheba." The play, to be staged in June at the Plover Playhouse, is being directed by Mrs. Evadne Andersen, who is in charge of the auditions.

Ashville Man Killed when Truck Hits Car

BUSTI, N.Y. — A 54-year-old Ashville man, Ivar Lawson, became Chautauque County's fourth highway fatality of 1968 Friday morning when his car was struck broadside at the intersection of the Big Tree-Sugar Grove rd. and Baker st. ext.
Lawson was pronounced dead on arrival at Jamestown General Hospital at 10:20 a.m. Police said his vehicle was traveling east on Baker st. ext. when it was struck by a truck owned by A. A. Walrod and Sons of Kennedy, N.Y. The operator of the truck was listed by police as Marion J. Price, 24, RD 1, Kennedy. According to police, the truck failed to stop for a stop sign at the intersection. Price escaped with no injuries.
The Lawson car was knocked 143 feet down the highway before plunging down an embankment. The collision spun the truck around, whereupon it crashed into guardrails at the intersection.

Jamestown Library Drive Succeeding

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — Paul B. Sullivan, chairman of the special gifts division of the Prendergast Library capital funds campaign, announced Friday that 53 per cent of its goal has been reached.
Sullivan told a luncheon meeting that to date nearly $27,000 has been raised toward a divisional goal of $50,000. The expansion program now under way at the library is expected to cost $400,000, $150,000 of which is being raised locally. Federal and state grants totaling $338,346 have also been received for the project. Today's report, Sullivan said, is more than $13,000 higher than the amount reported at last week's meeting.
College Bowl Guest
Harry Greenlund, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Greenlund, of 11 Alexander st., Warren, will be one of four students to represent the University of Pittsburgh on the College Bowl program this week. Harry was chosen from 120 students screened for the TV special.

Shafer Signs Bill to Regulate Rain Making

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer reluctantly signed into law Friday a bill to regulate rain-making activities in Pennsylvania.
"On the recommendation of the secretary of agriculture, I am signing this bill, although I am not totally satisfied with all of its provisions," Shafer said in a statement.
The bill would set up a special Weather Modification Board to license rainmaking activities at $100 a year and require the rainmakers to advertise any cloud-seeding activities in advance.
The board would be composed of the state secretaries of agriculture, health and commerce, plus the dean of the College of Earth Sciences at Pennsylvania State University and three other members named by the governor.
Shafer did not elaborate on his objections, but added that amendments would be proposed during this legislative session.
The governor also signed a bill providing a three-month course of instruction for newly elected justices of the peace and aldermen.
However, he vetoed three bills which would have:
— Restricted the suspension of motorists who had been indicted for drunken driving or driving under the influence of narcotics.
— Permitted commercial vehicles such as tractor-trailers to bear illuminated signs.
— Authorized real estate brokers whose licenses had been suspended to continue operating on payment of a $25 fine.
The first bill would have cut down the power of the secretary of revenue to suspend operating privileges for an infraction, Shafer said; the second would have been a safety hazard, and the third would have compromised the effectiveness of a suspension.

Crew of the 'Enterprise' Go Unmolested

SASEBO, Japan (AP) — The nuclear-powered U.S. aircraft carrier Enterprise arrived Friday for a visit that Japanese student extremists have protested with three days of rioting and bloodshed. But her crewmen went ashore on liberty unmolested.

Three hours before the sailors came ashore, some 400 leftist students battled with police, who used tear gas, high-pressure water jets and truncheons to turn them away from the entrance to the U.S. naval base.

Fifty-one students were arrested, bringing the three-day total to 334. A total of 305 persons were injured, including 143 police and 137 students, in three days of rioting. The others suffering injuries were newsmen and citizens.

Because of lingering tension, more than 3,000 sailors who came ashore from the 75,000-ton carrier and her accompanying ships—the nuclear-power guided-missile frigate Halsey—were confined to the base compound for two hours. Officials then decided to let the sailors go ashore and enjoy what many consider to be the best liberty port in Japan.

About 300 Socialists staged a brief sit-down in Sasebo's bar and cabaret district, but with the arrival of police they departed peacefully before the sailors came.

Receive Safe Driving Awards

Gilson and Charles W. Turk. A five year award went to William R. Lamb and bronze awards for one to four years of accident-free driving were given to Donald H. Proper, Steven E. Rensma, Henry M. Vargason, William H. Dashner, Richard H. Nichols Jr. and Thomas J. Pyle Sr.

Promote Stamps

Quality Markets, Inc., invoking the law of supply and demand, says the S & H green stamps it hands out at 30 of its markets will become more valuable now that A & P has abandoned Plaid Stamps. "This will increase our volume and keep prices at the lowest level possible," Rollin Reading, the chain's president, said.

Churchill Downs, in Louisville, was opened in 1875.

Fantastic Story Of LSD Isn't Over

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The fantastic story of the six Pennsylvania college students allegedly blinded by the sun during an LSD-induced trance isn't finished yet. Did it happen, or not? Is it a hoax, as branded by Pennsylvania's governor? Or is the man who admits inventing the tale sacrificing his career and his reputation in order to continue concealment of the blinded victims?

State Sen. Benjamin Donolow, a Philadelphia Democrat generally critical of the Republican administration of Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, said Friday he's "not altogether convinced it is a hoax."

"The facts just don't work out as being proper," Donolow told The Associated Press. "It just doesn't ring true. We think we have two decent leads."

Shafer suspended Dr. Norman Yoder from his $20,659 job as Pennsylvania's commissioner for the blind after Yoder admitted Thursday he had fabricated the story.

The motive: To point out the evils and dangers of LSD, said the governor.

Donolow, however, disputes this.

In a radio interview Donolow said Yoder, a man of outstanding reputation in the field of blind rehabilitation, "didn't do a thing about getting publicity."

The state senator said the story was disclosed Jan. 12 when an official of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare "tipped off The Associated Press."

Donolow said on Tuesday an investigation by himself and his staff found the story "to be true." On Friday, he said his staff was "working feverishly, we are hoping we might get something."

He added he now thinks it is probable only two boys were blinded while under the influence of the hallucinogenic drug, and not six.

Gov. Shafer, supported by a telegraphed request from Atty. Gen. William C. Sennett, Friday asked Donolow to turn over all his information immediately.

"We want to know, too," said the governor. "We have not precluded this possibility that the story is true and that's why the investigation is continuing."

Yoder, 53, reportedly collapsed in tears after blurting out to Sennett that he lied, and now is being treated at the Philadelphia Psychiatric Center.

University Instructor Would Eliminate Grades

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Temple University instructor said Friday he is doing away with the traditional lettered grade system because it encourages cheating and doesn't tell students enough about their work.

Dr. Sidney B. Simon, associate professor of elementary education, said the grading system should be replaced with talks and written evaluations which would remain private between teacher and student.

"It's time to do away with the old-fashioned ABCD and use all the letters of the alphabet if we want to let students know something about their work," he said, referring to the written evaluation.

Dr. Simon said students in a drive to get better grades "are busy cheating" and "are busy making crib sheets and making up hand signals for true and false questions."

He said he wants other faculty members to sit down and work out a better system of student evaluation, adding, "The present one is the worst that could have been devised."

"I do not feel protest or malicious, so I will not spindle, mutilate or even fold the IBM cards. This semester I am just not going to put grades on those punctured pieces of cardboard," said Dr. Simon.

Asked how he would judge a student's performance and rank in class without grades, Dr. Si-

Ann Rogers, 15 Linwood st. After inspecting the damage he got back into his car and drove into a vehicle driven by Betty Lyle, 42 Locust st., police said. Damage was set at $605. Charges are pending.

Tax Bite Not Far Off

Mr. Citizen, are you willing to stand by and let the state hit you with another $200 million tax bite in the not too distant future? If not, you should do all within your power to bring about the defeat of Senate Bill 1190.

For even now when Governor Raymond P. Shafer is hailing the enactment of the Land and Water Conservation Reclamation Act, which calls for the spending of $200 million to reclaim lands ravished by coal strippers and deep mine operators, as a tremendous step forward in the conservation of our land and waters, the miners of non-coal products are attempting to push this bill through the Senate to exempt them from the controls that presently require the coal operators to back-fill their pits.

Conservationists in all parts of the state have labeled S. B. 1190 a "license to pollute" as it would allow the non-coal operators to continue their nefarious practices of leaving gaping holes in the landscape, discharging untreated acid waters into our streams and denuding the countryside without replacing the natural growth.

It has been charged that this bill was actually prepared by representatives of the surface mining industry, and that at one point a change of wording in the bill was suggested that would have wiped out the controls established by the Bituminous Open Pit Mining Conservation Act, Pennsylvania's model strip mine law. This move was defeated by members of the Senate

The Dangers of Peacemaking

WASHINGTON—Because of President Johnson's incurable propensity for talking peace while waging war, it has always been clear that the biggest risks in Vietnam would begin when the time for peacemaking approached.

That time is almost certainly approaching. As previously revealed in this space, all sorts of captured documents show that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops in the South, as well as the political and other cadres, are now being promised peace-by-coalition at some moment in 1968.

This widespread promise of peace-by-coalition is, in fact, the prime reason for the sharp recent drop-off in numbers of defectors from the Viet Cong. If you are promised early peace-by-coalition—and by a coalition, at that, which your own side also promises to dominate—you do not defect to the other side for awhile.

That is one side of the medal. The other side of the medal is indicated by the forceful, solidly reasoned and extremely dignified speech by the new president of South Vietnam, Nguyen Van Thieu. President Thieu had to speak out forcefully because the VC promises of peace-by-coalition, combined with the sheer idiocy of the debate in this country, threatened to cause incipient panic in Saigon. A U.S. sellout had begun to be feared, in fact.

Of course President Thieu was justified in pointing out that our government had no right to force a phony "coalition" on our South Vietnamese allies. If the U.S. government is wise, any negotiations directly concerning coalition, if these ever begin, will be left strictly to the South Vietnamese government.

A phony coalition that will altogether nullify the sacrifice of the thousands of Americans who have fallen in Vietnam is one of the dangers of peacemaking, which President Johnson will need guts to guard against. But it is not the only danger, by any means.

Another danger is an intensification of the fighting as a standard Communist preliminary to peacemaking or, at any rate, to peacemaking maneuvers. This intensification has already begun and has caused alarm in some quarters in Washington. No one seems to have much memory, alas.

In Korea, for instance, the biggest Chinese-North Korean offensive of the entire war occurred in the month before the truce was finally signed at Panmunjon. In the hope of changing the final truce lines by a few miles, or of changing President Eisenhower's mind on the key issue of the Chinese prisoners who did not want to go back, human lives were poured out like water by the Communist high command.

The broad applicability of this Korean precedent is indicated in the captured documents mentioned above, which universally call for great final military efforts in order to secure the promised peace-by-coalition.

The real danger lies, not in the intensification of the fighting in South Vietnam, which Gen. William Westmoreland can handle, but in the possibility of a serious extension of the war to Laos. Hanoi has always had the option of changing the war's whole character by making Laos a really active front. The infiltration barrier sponsored by Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara has no doubt increased the temptation to move into Laos. If Hanoi does move in a big way in Laos, it is to be hoped that those in this country who endlessly yammer about "escalation" will recognize a major "escalation" by Hanoi.

The only possible answer to such a move by Hanoi will be to call up the reserves and perhaps to move against the vulnerable southern tip of North Vietnam. President Johnson would do well to indicate clearly, and in advance, that his answer will be as firm as this. Then he can almost certainly count on not having to give such an answer.

As to the final danger of peacemaking, it is, quite obviously, that political pressures will lead President Johnson to pay a fatal price just to "get talks." Here the problem is the bombing of North Vietnam. Even within the Administration there are a few who think it may be safe to suspend the bombing in return for cessation of all pressure on the demilitarized zone, plus some sort of unverifiable ceiling on infiltration southward.

But the point about the bombing, almost universally ignored in public discussion, is that it ties up in North Vietnam at least 700,000 men—or the equivalent of 11 million men in the United States—on all sorts of urgent jobs ranging from bridge repairs to anti-aircraft defense. By the U.S. government's own estimates, ending the bombing will give Hanoi 500,000 additional men for possible use as reinforcements in the war in South Vietnam.

With any infiltration ceiling absolutely unverifiable, immediate and massive enemy reinforcement can be confidently predicted—unless all infiltration is absolutely ruled out. Within a few months our men in the line will then have a new war on their hands. And on the hands of those who have shouldered for and have accepted such a deal there will be the blood of our men who have to fight and die in this new war.

JIM BISHOP A Threat Is a Threat

What is a threat? A man, intoxicated, has an argument with his wife and says: "I'll kill you." A youth declaims: "If they make me carry a rifle, the first man I want to get in the sights of the barrel is LBJ." A passenger at an airline counter murmurs: "Don't weigh the briefcase. That's the one with the time bomb."

What is a threat? When is it serious? The man who threatened to kill his wife was told: "Aw, go to bed and sleep it off." He did. The boy, Robert Watts, was found guilty of threatening the President of the United States. The airline clerk phoned the police, and the joker who thought he was funny served six months.

Put me down as one who doesn't understand the word threat, whether it is intended to be joking or deadly serious. If I wanted to punch a man, I doubt that I would warn him. I know that I would not go around telling people about it. The threat, as such, is intended to impress an audience.

Lee Harvey Oswald didn't threaten to kill President Kennedy. His background, as a defector, is that of a sullen cipher. Even John Wilkes Booth proposed to his confederates that President Abraham Lincoln be "kidnapped." Dangerous persons speak on tiptoe. Still, it has been necessary, in this enlightened country, to enact legislation to protect the President and his successors from threats. The penalty—even when the prisoner protests that he was "only kidding"—is five years in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Most people who threaten the President are, to a small or great degree, unbalanced. Many are investigated and sent to hospitals. Some are tried and even though the standard defense is "I was only kidding," juries come in with guilty verdicts and federal judges are handing down stiff sentences.

The Protective Research Section of the U.S. Secret Service used to hold a handful of names of potentially dangerous persons. Today there are thousands of names in it and a computer can, in a moment, spew forth names covering any city in the country. These are not insane persons per se. They are citizens who, in private or in public, have threatened the person of the President or who have homicidal tendencies.

Under the new federal law, the person who makes the threat can be found guilty even if he has no intention of carrying it out, and even if he has no means of carrying it out. It is severe, but it must be because no one has ever devised a means of weighing a threat.

In 1962, when President Kennedy was in office, 80 persons were arrested for threats against the Chief Executive. Last year, the number was 425. It is not that there are more threats; the Secret Service is more vigilant. The agents no longer overlook those who seem remote from the President.

Charles V. Blackmon, 25, called a "New Left Militant," was arrested a few hours before President Johnson arrived in Wichita, Kansas. Mr. Blackmon, a former Wichita State University student, is charged with saying: "I am going to get a gun and kill the son of a bitch." Kid talk? Silly? He was arraigned in District Court.

In the same city, William Rothering Jr. was picked up breaking into a gun shop. Police asked him what he was doing. Rothering said he was going to take a gun and shoot President Johnson because he believed that Johnson was implicated in the assassination of President Kennedy.

In the case of a threat by an insane person, should the government forgive and forget? Not as long as the nut can hold and aim a rifle. In Washington, D.C., 200 mentally ill persons are picked up each year near government buildings and sent to St. Elizabeth's Hospital for treatment.

The Secret Service felt humiliated when it lost Kennedy in Dallas. It doesn't plan to overlook anybody who might be dangerous to the person of the President. Of course, if November 22, 1963, was to be reenacted tomorrow with the same assortment of knowledge, Kennedy would be shot again. In my opinion, no one but God could have stopped that one.

All of us have heard threats of one kind or another. The majority turn out to be nothing more than words. If only one in each thousand is serious, then all must be taken in deadly earnest.

Unhappily, there is no other way.

The Hard-Headed Admirals

WASHINGTON—Of all the brass hats and bureaucrats who abound in Washington, the most hard-headed are the admirals, who can be neither budged by superiors nor bestirred by subordinates from the straight Navy line.

The admirals' clique has resisted just about every naval innovation since the sailing ship. It took the intervention of Congress, for example, to compel the Navy to build aircraft carriers and, later, atomic submarines.

Maverick Adm. Hyman Rickover, the sometimes cantankerous son of a Polish pants presser, was consigned to a reconditioned ladies' toilet during his work on nuclear power. The admirals actually tried to drum him out of the Navy before he could complete the first atomic sub. Only repeated blasts in this column, plus the intervention of Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., persuaded then-Secretary of the Navy Robert Anderson to overrule the admirals.

Even after the world's first atomic sub was completed, the admirals circulated a memorandum charging that it was merely a showpiece whose delicate equipment wouldn't work at high speeds. They turned out to be embarrassingly wrong; yet, rather than confess error, they tried again to block the promotion of the man who had made them look foolish.

Six years ago, this column took up the cry of another junior officer, Lt. Marcus Arnette, who warned that the admirals were neglecting anti-submarine warfare. He wrote an article charging that our defenses against Soviet submarines were disastrously inadequate. The Navy suppressed the article, but we revealed the facts that had been suppressed.

Once again the admirals were proved to be wrong, and Congress compelled the Navy to strengthen their anti-submarine force.

When Arnette subsequently was criticized by his junior officers aboard the radar picket ship Vance, the admirals sided with the junior officers and stripped Arnette of his command without a formal hearing. This was a violation of naval regulations, but the admirals supported one another all the way up the line to the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Thomas Moorer.

We blasted the lid off the Arnette case a year ago. But unlike Anderson, who had the courage to stand up to Rickover, Secretary of the Navy Paul Ignatius sided with the admirals against the outcast, Arnette, who asked for nothing more than the formal hearing he had been denied.

Only one courageous officer, Capt. Richard Alexander, refused to remain silent. He protested in a 27-page memo to Ignatius against the raw deal given to Arnette. For his efforts he was dressed down by Admiral Moorer personally, and pressured to resign his command of the world's only battleship, the USS New Jersey, before it could leave the Philadelphia shipyard for combat duty. He had been given the command in the first place because

Six Per Cent Too Confusing

The gut reaction of people outside the government always seems to go to the core of the problem. Around here, in the press releases, they just skirt it.

The week after Governor Shafer approved a six percent sales tax for Pennsylvania, 18 girls quit their jobs with a restaurant chain in Philadelphia. Most of them were women with low education levels, according to their business agent, they found collecting six percent, as opposed to five percent, "too confusing."

In addition to a one percent increase, the sales tax base on restaurant meals has been lowered from 50 cents to 11 cents. The counter girls had to do all that extra figuring, and, said the agent, it was "just too much for them."

When the Legislature went to work on horse and harness racing this winter, crusty old L.B. Shepard, who raises horses, and who once served as chairman of the Pennsylvania Harness Racing Commission, had an opinion or two none of the lawmakers had checked out.

An official guess estimates that the State would raise $50 million a year from flat racing: "That," said Mr. Shepard as he cast his view across 2,300 acres of snow driven pastureland near Hanover, "is pure nonsense."

The Governor also okayed a fifth harness racing track for Pennsylvania and Shepard wanted to know: "Where are they going to put another harness track? Gettysburg? . . . Maybe somebody will line up to sell them stock, but I doubt if harness racing in Erie will be profitable. Racing in that section of the country—the New York State tracks bordering Pennsylvania—has never been profitable."

of a brilliant career, which he has now sacrificed for the sake of Navy justice.

Ignatius, fronting again for the admirals, has now widened the credibility gap by insisting in a letter to Rep. Joe Resnick, D-N.Y., that there is no relationship between Alexander's abrupt transfer to the Boston boat docks and his stand on the Arnette case.

Resnick called Ignatius' incredible letter "a bare-faced fairy tale" and set out to prove it. He has already received some blunt information from Vice Adm. T. G. W. Settle (Ret.), who had been asked by the Navy to review the Arnette case.

"In view of the fact," wrote Resnick, "that Captain Alexander was invited by the Secretary of the Navy to express his views on the Arnette case, and that the Secretary sent his own plane to bring Captain Alexander to Washington, do you think that Captain Alexander acted improperly in expressing his views as candidly as he did?"

Replied Admiral Settle: "He (Alexander) would have been derelict in his duties as a naval officer and derelict to his oath of office had he failed to express himself candidly as he did."

"Is it normal in the Navy," asked Resnick, "for an officer to request transfer from command of a battleship, before going to sea, in order to accept a more obscure assignment?"

"Certainly not," answered Settle. "It can only occur under duress."

"Do you consider that Captain Alexander's transfer is, in effect, a punitive action?" asked the Congressman.

"Yes," said Settle, "obviously." "If it is punitive," pressed Resnick, "why do you think the Navy took such action?"

"As a logical follow-up step," replied the admiral, "in sweeping under the rug the series of command bumbles, starting with Rear Admiral Irvine's and Rear Admiral King's flagrant flouting of Navy regulations and military ethics in their relief of Arnette from command of the Vance. Instead of the Navy admitting a mistake and redressing it, the Navy has sought to 'cover up,' to 'snow under' Congressional and press inquiries, and to obscure the core issue with smoke screens of distorted collateral issues."

"In your opinion," asked Resnick, "what will be the long-term effect of the Navy's handling of this case on morale, effectiveness, discipline and stature of commanding officers?"

"The long-term effect, as well as short-term, if the Arnette-Alexander precedents stand," said Settle, "will be to erode the esprit de corps, the discipline, the combat effectiveness of our military services. I am a third generation military careerist. But had the Arnette-Alexander debacle happened when I was a youngster, I would not have jeopardized myself by becoming a professional. My sensing of the consensus in our fleet, in our war rooms, is that the Navy is no longer a 'safe harbor' for officers with guts and forthrightness."

director—Mr. Bowden was in a condition bordering on shock.

"Pennsylvania highways users," he reported, "have already paid $3.1 million in gasoline taxes since the beginning of the new year."

That, he explained is as much as they ante-up in the whole year of 1967 when a 1 cent tax first was imposed in Pennsylvania.

Milk merchandisers in Pennsylvania have been short on language but very long on meaningful action during 1967, and on into 1968. They are testing still another device designed to work around the State law prohibiting the use of premiums to induce milk sales.

A cooperative based in Allegheny County is making consumers "stockholders" in the stores where they buy milk. At month's end, they simply return their receipts, and they are credited with "dividends" based on the "earnings" of the cooperative.

The first dividend in January amounted to 15 cents a gallon, a figure which speaks a lot louder than the language of a press release. About the only thing it doesn't hold a candle to is a court injunction.

ART BUCHWALD They Want To Help Us

WASHINGTON — The worst part of the economic dollar crisis is that everyone is telling the United States what to do about it. For 25 years we have been advising other countries how to shore up their economies, but now the tables are turned and we have to sit and listen to them. De Gaulle started it but even the smaller countries are getting into the act.

The other day the U.S. ambassador to Zanzibar was called in by Zanzibar's minister of finance. After shaking hands with him the minister invited the ambassador to sit on the dirt floor of his tent near the fire.

"Mr. Ambassador," the minister said as he popped a betel nut into his mouth, "Zanzibar is very concerned about your dollar crisis."

"It's good to hear you say that," the ambassador replied as he tried to keep a lizard from running up his leg.

"You see, we feel we have a stake in America's economy and what affects you will affect us."

"Why do you say that?" the ambassador asked as he knocked a spider off his sleeve.

"Well, as you know, most of our aid comes from the United States, and we certainly don't want help from a country that is having trouble with its currency."

"Of course, you don't," said the ambassador. "We're grateful you've been playing along with us this long."

"Yes, but I must warn you since we are an underdeveloped country we can't play along with you much longer. The Zanzibar people demand that the country that helps them show more fiscal responsibility or they'll have to get their aid somewhere else."

"We're doing the best we can," the American ambassador said.

"From what I can read, this apparently is not good enough," the minister said. "It seems to me you're going to have to tighten your belts, straighten out your balance-of-payments and win the respect of the worldwide banking community."

"But how?" the ambassador asked.

"Zanzibar economists have just completed a study of the United States' economy. We feel that among the measures you must take to strengthen the dollar is to export more than you import, increase your gross national product and raise taxes. Unless you are willing to do this we will not be able to accept your financial assistance."

"But those are very strong measures."

"Mr. Ambassador, we can't help you if you're not willing to help yourselves. It is not just a question of economic stability. You are also lacking political stability, and you will never get anywhere if you don't win the hearts and minds of your own people."

"You mean you want us to change our political system, too?"

"Zanzibar does not like to interfere in the affairs of another country, but to be frank with you I cannot justify to my people accepting aid from a country whose domestic affairs are in such chaos."

"How much time do we have?" the American ambassador asked.

"Not much," the minister said. "We're planning to have a dam and if your gold situation doesn't improve we may ask the Russians to build it for us."

"I'll pass your thoughts on to Washington, but I hope you won't make up your mind until we have a chance to prove ourselves."

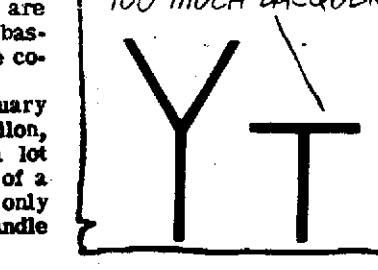

"Mr. Ambassador, the people of Zanzibar have the greatest respect for America, and we are certainly aware of the problem of an overdeveloped country. At the same time, we feel if we don't get tough, you people will let things slide and we'll be stuck with a bunch of aid dollars that have no value."

"Thank you for your kindness and help," the American ambassador said, killing a snake with his foot.

"It's perfectly all right," the minister smiled. "After all, if we were in trouble you'd probably do the same for us."

Townville Matmen Trip Youngsville

TOWNVILLE — The Youngsville Eagle grapplers were tripped by a small Townville squad here last night, 35-21. The Eagles posted only one win in the entire match, but were handed three forfeits by the Townville squad to collect their 21 points.

John Anthony wrestled to a scoreless third period in the 154 match and then with less than a minute to go captured an escape to give the Eagles their only match win, a 1-0 decision. Max Collins suffered a heart-breaker at 112 where he wrestled Davidson into the final period without either grappler scoring. However, with three seconds left in the match Davidson scored a reversal to win the match in a 2-0 decision.

The Red and White collected forfeits in the first two matches 95 and 103 and in the 165 bout, Youngsville again gave up the 180 and heavyweight matches when they failed to produce a wrestler for the third match in a row and Townville collected 12 easy points.

Only two pins were registered in the match as Maynard (120) of Townville pulled Greg Clark to the mats in 5:08 and Lingo squeezed Eagle John Eiter to the mats at 1:29 for an easy first period win.

Phil Holcomb was decisioned 8-2 by Wright of Townville, while Eagle Larry Maynard lost a 4-0 judgment and Ron Lawrence was defeated 6-1 by Townville's D. Wright.

The Eagle Jayvee squad triumphed over the "little" Townville grapplers, 16-7. The Eagles netted one pin as Rick Blakeslee (120) pressured his Townville opponent to the mats in 5:27. Four decisions were collected for the Red and White. At 95 Pat Burleigh collected a 10-4 decision and at 103 Mike McKinney netted a 9-4 judgment, both for the Eagles. Close bouts found George Seveda edging his opponent at 145, 8-6, and Youngsville's Benedict drawing, 4-4.

Youngsville continues their wrestling season Tuesday night when they roll out the carpet for North Clarion.

DANNY ON THE BALL

Dragon Cagers, Grapplers Sweep Berries

O'Neil, Cobb Spark 65-51 Win on Court

BY LARRY G. STEELE

Sports Editor
Sparked by Ed O'Neil and Dave Cobb, Warren's cagers coasted to a 65-51 triumph over Cranberry in the WAHS gym last night, the second straight Section II victory on the home court for the Blue and White.

O'Neil and Cobb combined for 36 points, over half of Warren's total and an aggressive Warren defense did the rest. Cobb led a second quarter surge that put the Dragons in the driver's seat and finished with 18 points. O'Neil, a fast-improving sophomore, played an outstanding game both ways, totaling 20 points and controlling the boards against a taller Cranberry team.

The hustling Dragon defense caused many Berry turnovers, turned in numerous steals and allowed the visitors only a few easy shots. Randy Jones and Ed O'Neil contained the Berries' big man, 6-9 George McClure, most of the evening and the giant scored only six points in the first three-and-one-half quarters.

Warren was again deadly at the foul line, converting 19 of 22 attempts. Cranberry had more opportunities, 30, but made only 17. The Dragons also held the edge from the field, 23 to 17.

A foul shot gave the Berries the opening lead, then the two teams traded baskets and Ed O'Neil put the Dragons ahead 7-5, by converting two free throws with 5:41 left in the first period.

After that, it was the Dragons all the way. With Cobb gunning from the right side and Ed O'Neil hitting underneath and hauling down the rebounds, the Blue and White quickly opened up a seven-point advantage at the quarter, 15-8.

The second period was Warren's best of the night.

Dan Krumm grabbed the tip-off and drove in all alone for an easy layup and the Dragons were off and running. Cobb hit on a jumper and Ed O'Neil fed Randy Jones for a two-pointer from underneath and Warren surged ahead by nine, 24-11.

The Blue and White continued to pour it on and when Ed O'Neil hit another in close, held a 17-point margin at halftime, 37-20. Cranberry started strong in the third stanza, but the Dragons maintained control and upped their lead to 21 points, 44-23, on a foul by Cobb midway through the stanza. The teams played even for the next four minutes, and Warren held a commanding 19 point edge heading into the last period, 51-32.

The fourth quarter was Cranberry's best effort, but it was too little, too late. The Berries held the advantage in scoring during the stanza, 19-14, but most came near game's end when Coach Joe Shantz emptied the Dragon bench. Jones fouled out early in the period, but Ed O'Neil took his place guarding McClure and Jones' absence posed no problem.

Krumm, Dan O'Neil and substitute Rob Lorange kept things rolling for the Blue and White and Cranberry had to push to make the final score as close as it was.

Paul Mills finished as Cranberry's top scorer with 22 points, but 12 came from the foul line in 18 attempts. Krumm's man-to-man defense kept the Berry ace from driving the lane most of the evening.

Now 4-8 on the season, the Dragons travel to Titusville, on Tuesday to meet the Section II leading Rockets, winner over Franklin last night.

In preliminary action, Warren Jayvees posted a 63-50 victory over the little Berries. Larry Spence took game-high honors with 23 points and Sam Wilson hit for 15 to spark the Little Dragons.

Eagle, Knight Quintets Win; Sheffield Dumped

County cage action was mixed last night as Warren, Youngsville and Eisenhower posted victories, while Tidoute and Sheffield met defeat. The Knights edged Spartansburg, 59-52, while Youngsville downed county rival Tidoute 81-61. Sheffield was tripped up by Pleasantville, 70-61. The Dragons downed Cranberry 65-51.

The Eagles staged a fantastic offensive game that broke up all Bulldog attempts to halt them. When Tidoute tried a full court press, the Eagles fought back with fast breaks. The Bulldogs then defended man-to-man, but that failed as the Red and White played control ball with sure shots from the outside.

The Eagle attack was led by Gary Wood, who shot 11 perfect field goals to net 22 points. When Tidoute tried a full court press, the Eagles fought back with fast breaks. The Bulldogs then defended man-to-man, but that failed as the Red and White played control ball with sure shots from the outside.

Tourney Sellout

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The American Bowling Congress said Friday that the 1968 ABC tournament at Cincinnati has been sold out and some entries may have to be returned.

The Orange and Black stuck close to the Eagles in first period and the stanza ended in a 16-16 tie. However, the second quarter saw the Red and White surge ahead as they left the Bulldogs in the dust to enter the locker room with a 41-28 lead.

A strong full court press was executed by the Bulldogs in the third stanza, but the Eagles laced their way through it to outscore Tidoute 19-10, bringing their lead to a 60-44 mark. With victory in their eyes, the Eagles held their lead by never letting down in the fourth quarter, despite the fact that Coach Paul Siegel substituted freely. The Eagle reserves outscored the weary Bulldogs, 21-17, in the final period to collect their 81-61 victory.

The victory moves Youngsville to the .500 mark in UAVL play with a 2-2 record and a 6-8 record for the season. The Red and White Jayvee squad battled into a tough overtime with the Bulldogs before meeting a 47-44 defeat. Jim Pillar carried the Orange and Black squad to victory with 11 points and Paul Yucha held the Eagle pace with 17.

The return of Bob Burlingame to the Ike squad secured the Blue and Gold victory as the 6-7 cager tallied 21 points. Burlingame netted ten field goals and one charity bucket for his total. Tim Allen assisted the

Matmen Take Eleven Bouts in 45-3 Rout

CRANBERRY — Winning all but one match, Warren Area High School's wrestling team routed the Cranberry High matmen here last night, 45-3, the worst defeat the Berries have suffered this season.

The Dragon grapplers, imposing their eighth straight dual match victory and fifth in Section II competition, won the first nine matches before the Berries put points on the scoreboard.

Cranberry's Dick Graham decisioned Bob Thompson, 10-6, in the 165-pound match, then the Dragons took the last two weights.

Notching falls for the Blue and White were Bob Sequist (95), Dane Sorensen (112), Ray Lowe (154), Dale Pusateri (180) and Lee Bryan (heavyweight).

Doug Sorensen (127) turned in one of the big decisions of the night, stopping previously unbeaten Dave Cox, 3-0. Cox was 4-0 in conference competition before running into the Dragon co-captain.

Also winning by decision for Warren were Mark Williams (103), Steve Jones (120), Jim Mead (133), Steve Kaiser (138), and Mike Maines (145), all by big margins.

In an exhibition match, Warren's 88-pounder Dan Albaugh blanked Dan Wise of the host team, 4-0.

Sequist started the Dragons victory by nailing Cranberry's Snyder with 10 seconds remaining in the opening period. Warren took a 9-0 lead when Williams whitewashed Paul Somers at 103, 16-0.

Dane Sorensen kept the ball rolling at 112 by pinning isolated Derwin Wenner of the Berries after 1:44 of the opening whistle.

At 120, Jones of the Dragons posted his ninth victory in a row, two of which came in the Holiday Tournament, by shutting out Cranberry's McDowell by an 8-0 score. After Doug Sorensen disposed of Cox at 127, Mead romped over John Silvis, 15-0, in the 133-pound bout.

Kaiser made it 27-0 for the Blue and White with a 6-0 shut-out over John Somers of Cranberry at 138 and 145-pounder Maines ripped John Sharpe, 13-2.

At 154, Lowe, who has come on strong since a couple early season losses, stretched Cranberry's Dave West after 1:46 of the middle stanza to up Warren's point total to 35.

Graham, who was winless in Section II competition before the match, averted the shutout for Cranberry by defeating Thompson.

Then, the Dragons finished strong when co-captain Pusateri pinned Dick Perry with 19 seconds remaining in the first period and Bryan gained a fall over Art Show midway through the second stanza of the heavyweight match.

Warren's junior varsity was even more successful in winning its seventh match against a single defeat. The Little Dragons routed the Berry Jayvees, 62-5, racking up nine pins, one decision and a forfeit. Winning via the fall route were Gary Smith (103), Roger Stocum (112), Tom Huber (133), Joe Kellogg (138), Dana Pusateri (145), Jeff Fimo (154), Greg Munch (165), Dan Haden (180) and John Bullock (heavyweight).

Denny Johnson (120) took a 5-0 decision and Tom Dies (95) was awarded a forfeit.

BANDAGES COME OFF

Lew Alcindor Will Play Against Houston Tonite

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)— Lew Alcindor, scratched eye and all, received word to hit the boards Saturday — making the UCLA-Houston basketball game the classic everyone expects.

It appeared for a time the 7-foot-1 Alcindor could not play for the West Coast Bruins because of the eye injury.

This dented the luster of the collision of the No. 1 and No. 2 teams.

But when bandages came off Friday, doctors said he was well enough to play before the largest college basketball crowd in history—probably 55,000 in the Astrodome. The game will be telecast nationally starting at 9 p.m. EST in some places and 9:30 p.m. in others depending on network commitments.

The super-star's vision, however, was reported less than good. His eye was scraped a week ago while he played the University of California at Berkeley.

Return of Alcindor took some of the spotlight off the University of Houston star, Elvin Hayes, who has spent his career laboring in the shadow of Alcindor.

But the 6-foot-8 All-America from Houston has no animosity for the big guy from UCLA.

"I'd say he's a friend of mine," Hayes said Friday on the eve of the showdown meeting of the country's top teams.

"The last time we were together, in Louisville, we had lunch together, then went out and bought some records, I like him. He's a regular guy," said Hayes.

Hayes is the third leading scorer in the country and an outstanding rebounder.

"It's not a personal thing, like it was last time," Hayes went on. "You know how it is. You hear so much about a guy and you want to find out who's best."

"So I made some mistakes. I was hurrying my shots a little, pressing. I wanted to make a good showing."

That was last year in the semifinals of the NCAA national championships. Hayes won his personal duel with Alcindor, outscoring him 25-19 and beating him on the boards 24-20. But UCLA stalked off with an easy 73-58 triumph.

Veteran Dick Nolan Named 49ers' Coach

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— Dick Nolan, Dallas Cowboys defensive coach, was named Friday as head coach of the San Francisco 49ers.

Nolan, 35, succeeds Jack Christiansen, who was fired by the National Football League club Dec. 20 after a disappointing 7-7 season.

Nolan, who has played for and coached winners in a 14-year professional football career, takes over as sixth head coach of a team which has never won a divisional title in its 22 years of competition.

He has only 10 days to prepare for the crucial first combined professional draft of college players scheduled to start in New York Jan. 30.

Although Nolan's reputation, both as player and coach, has been based on defense, as new head man on the sidelines for the 49ers he must face up immediately to a critical offensive problem.

Nolan, like his predecessor, Christiansen, who played at Detroit, gained his fame as a defensive specialist.

He was defensive back on the national champion University of Maryland team under Jim Tatum in 1953.

In 1954 he joined the New York football Giants as a defensive back, stayed through 1957, played one year for the then Chicago Cardinals, and returned to the Giants for three more years through 1961.

Nolan joined the then lowly Dallas Cowboys in 1962 as a player-coach and shifted the next year to fulltime defensive coaching. His defensive units figured in the Eastern Conference championships won by the Cowboys in 1966 and last season.

'Perky Peg' Leading Gal Skaters

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Perky Peggy Fleming, exhibiting steadiness, control and headiness on tricky ice, gained a commanding lead Friday in her bid for a fifth consecutive women's singles national title at the U. S. Figure Skating championships.

The 19-year-old dazzler from Colorado Springs, Colo., unknowingly touched the nerve of what happened on the Spectrum ice in the compulsory figures when she said, "This place separates the women from the girls."

Her blue eyes flashing, the Colorado College sophomore said she was satisfied with her performance, but complained it was difficult to see on the blue-colored ice.

"I'm used to skating on gray ice with more marks," she said. "This is light blue and difficult to follow the tracings."

She said, however, the conditions were the same for everyone. "It is a tough situation like this which shows a real champion," she said. "If you can get by this kind of situation you can get by anything."

The ice was colored for the weekend national telecast. Representing the Broadmoor Skating Club of Colorado Springs, Miss Fleming totaled 76.76 points for the six compulsory exercises.

A distant second to Miss Fleming was Albertina Noyes, the nation's No. 2 ranking distaff figure skater. Miss Noyes, from the Skating Club of New York totaled 72.69 points in the competition, the winner of which is judged on other facts in addition to the point total. The free skating finals will be Saturday night.

In the junior men's single division, Kenneth Shelley of Arctic Blades, led a field of ten in the compulsory exercises—the free skating finals are Sunday—with a point total of 85.45. Robert Bradshaw of the Los Angeles Figure Skating Club was second 63.69.

This was the second of the four-day nationals, which will determine 1968 U. S. champions, the American Olympic team and Uncle Sam's representatives at the world championships in Switzerland, Feb. 27.

HERE IN PERSON

Wally Taber, Mr. Safari to millions, will appear at Warren Area High School on February 7 to narrate films of his outdoor adventures. He and Mrs. Taber pose with a Mozambique leopard during the filming of "White Hunter," one part of the program. The Warren Field and Stream Club is again sponsoring the event.

Wally Taber Will Appear Here with Safari Movies

How to bag a Russian stag or stumble on a sable is easier done than said according to globe-girdling sportsman-photographer Wally Taber who comes to Warren with a program of high-adventure films from beyond the Iron Curtain, beyond the Arctic Circle and below the Equator, not to mention beneath the midnight sun.

Appearing in person to narrate his latest color-film program at Warren Area High School, February 7 at 8 p.m., under auspices of the Warren Field & Stream Club, the popular film raconteur from Texas promises wild adventure for the whole family. "We carried our color camera right into Red Square, filmed the sanctified grounds of the impressive Kremlin and topped it off with a Russian stag hunt in the famed city of Yalta where Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill made history," Taber said.

"While the stag was the only critter the Russians would permit us to shoot," Taber continued, "we filmed also the majestic mouflon sheep which was introduced there from the Isle of Corsica. Of course, we also filmed our interpreter for she was a most vivacious and beautiful girl and, in the doing, stumbled over a table that crouched beneath a fallen log but departed too swiftly for skinning."

On a same trip around the globe adjacent to the Arctic Taber traveled beyond the north piece of land to the world to film polar bear hunting on the Arctic ice cap itself. At one point, within 500 miles of the North Pole, Taber bagged a massive white bear with bow and arrow while Mrs. Taber did the same with a well-placed slug from a 7mm Remington Magnum rifle. North of Fair Joseph Land, Russia's most northerly and mass, they shot hair seals and eider ducks while in the Spitzbergen archipelago, Norway's most northerly land mass, they filmed dwarf reindeer and caught-tasty arctic char and bulging ling cod.

"And, in case all this cold-country filming gives you goose bumps," Taber apologized, "we jetted down to the Equator and caught perch that tipped the scales over 100 pounds. Unfortunately, our guide on that safari was later speared to death by natives that were friendly enough when we were there but had a change of heart shortly after we departed and killed our friend."

"In Angola, about as far south of the Equator as the Crimea is north of it, trouble preceded us," Taber recalled. "There our safari guide had just come from the hospital where he had recovered from half-a-dozen machine gun bullet wounds inflicted by calcitrant Congo natives."

Who says that adventure photographers have a perpetual vacation?

FINAL VICTORY RIDE??

Green Bay Packer coach Vince Lombardi was carried off the field after Sunday's Super Bowl triumph over Oakland. Lombardi has been the center of speculation concerning his plans next season? Will he remain as Packer coach? Read Arthur Daley's comments in column at left.

Sports of The Times

Arthur Daley

Is It Winter Talk?

NEW YORK—Emilen Tunnell was once a defensive back in the game, a man of such compelling personality that a tough and choosy selection committee named him a mainstay of the Canton shrine. The twinkling-eyed and delightful Tunnell regularly dropped into Giant headquarters at the end of the season and soon became the pet of the entire hierarchy. He always brought cheer and brightness with him.

One day many years ago Emilen wanted to carry a little excitement. He tossed a remark at Steve Owen, then the coach. "Steve," he said, "You ought to use me as an end next season. I don't want to play defense any more."

Steve grunted and said nothing. But he didn't forget. On the first day of training camp he noticed Tunnell gravitating automatically toward the group of backfield defenders.

"Em," he said, "If you're gonna be an end, you'll have to get over to the other corner with Jim Lee Howell and his group."

"That was just winter talk, Steve," hastily said Tunnell. "I'm still a defensive back."

Vince Lombardi has confided to intimates that he is taking under serious consideration the possibility of yielding his portfolio as coach of the Green Bay Packers while remaining as general manager. Should this also be regarded as "winter talk"?

The evidence is conflicting. Back in the old days of Yankee baseball dominance, Casey Stengel would get cute and mysterious late in the season as to whether or not he would retire as manager. But soon his conversations would become sprinkled with off-hand remarks as to how he planned to shift this fella next season or do this or do that until it became manifest he had not the slightest intention of quitting.

At Fort Lauderdale a few days ago Lombardi got to talking about Donny Anderson, his $600,000 bonus beauty.

"Andy is a remarkable athlete," said Vince. "He can play many places. He would make a great flanker. I might even return to the three-back system we had on the Giants in 1956. With Elijah Pitts, Jim Grabowski and Andy we'd have the ideal set up."

Lombardi was the Giant backfield coach in that World Championship year of 1956. And the New Yorkers struck from the pure T formation. Frank Gifford was at left half, a slashing runner who also could throw the option pass. Mel Triplett boomed up the middle and Alex Webster was at the other half, singularly gifted in grinding out yards to the left.

Anderson is equipped for the Gifford role although he is a left-handed passer and therefore would be at the opposite halfback spot. He also could go wide as a flanker or be a man in motion. The possibilities are limitless. What makes it even more attractive is that Travis Williams, the speed boy, is almost ready for more action than he saw in his rookie year. Will Lombardi turn away from such a set-up, especially since injuries to Pitts and Grabowski compounded his difficulties this season?

It is difficult to assess the situation because Vince said other things, too.

"When I took over the Packers in 1958," he also said, "this was a $600,000 business. Now it's a $5-million business. It's much too much for one man."

The Super Bowl has added extra pressure. Even for a man as inured to pressure as Lombardi.

"If we had lost to the Rams or Cowboys," he had admitted to close friends, "I wouldn't have liked it, but I could have accepted either as another defeat. But in the Super Bowl a coach carries the weight and the prestige of the entire league."

He has carried them well, and has rudely shattered the pretensions of the rival American Football League. His Packers beat Kansas City 35-10 and Oakland 33-14. But the fact still remains that he wears two hats and is tinkering with the notion of discarding one.

The trouble is that General Manager Lombardi can get a front office boss who might be able to handle the job as well as he can. But Coach Lombardi can't pick a successor with his own extraordinary coaching talents.

The Packers are an exceptionally articulate group of young men but none is more articulate than Jerry Kramer, the All-Pro guard who preceded Lombardi to Green Bay and therefore has a better appreciation than most of what the coach means to the team.

"Every ounce of class we have," said Jerry, "comes from Vince. His philosophy of life has been adopted by the team. He demands and he gets more, making every one of us a better player because he can get more out of us than any other coach possibly could. He's the patriarch of a large family."

Will the patriarch dare desert his family? Or is it what Emilen describes as "winter talk"?

ANOTHER CON SCHEME
LA SALLE, III (AP) A fast-talking "bank examiner" bilked an elderly woman out of $1,800 after he showed her a gold badge.
Police Chief Walter Kinczewski said the woman received a telephone call from a man who said he was a local bank officer and that "the examiners were in today."
He discussed her passbook, citing the number of her book, and asked if her account was short $100. She replied, "no."
Then he recited the details of the bank's bookkeeping system, suggesting she withdraw $1,800 from her account so they could watch a young teller they suspected of wrongdoing. He said he was sending a cab to pick her up.
In a few minutes the cab came and she went to the bank and made a withdrawal. When she returned home, the man came to the door and she let him in, giving him an envelope containing the money after he showed the badge in a leather folder.

E. Kitt 'Would Do It Again'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eartha Kitt, whose outburst at the White House Thursday flustered the President's wife, said Friday when asked if she would do it again, "Yes, I would."

The Negro singer's remarks that the Vietnam war is causing youth in the cities to rebel touched off a Washington furor. Asked as she stepped off a plane what triggered her statements at a meeting of about 50 white and Negro women to discuss crime in the streets, she replied: "I listened to all the ladies but I don't think any of them reached the crux of the matter."

"I said what is in my heart, and I think I am speaking for millions of Americans across the country and the world."

"... they talked about flowers down the streets of America and making bigger and heavier street lights, which is all well and good—I'm not against that—but I'm quite sure it doesn't squelch juvenile delinquency in any way."

She said women are concerned with bringing up children—"and the war's seem to be getting closer and closer together."

But she said she had no plans to join any antiwar movement. "Were your remarks directed specifically at Mrs. Johnson or at the other ladies too?" a reporter asked.

"I was speaking to the ladies as well as Mrs. Johnson," Miss Kitt said.

"I know that maybe Mrs. Johnson and Mr. Johnson did not start this particular Vietnamese war. It came about in the regime of another President."

"But they are in the position like the father and mother of our country."

"If they expect us as mothers and fathers to be responsible for our children... we expect them to be responsible for us as a nation."

"What would you suggest that they do?"

"Either make one stand or the other. One of the most important issues in this country is that we have been split down the middle. Half of the country feels that we should not be in the Vietnamese war and the other half feels we should be."

"As a result, the American people do not know whether we should or should not be there."

Asked if she had planned her outburst in advance, Miss Kitt said, "I don't think I had any planned thing in my mind."

"Will you take a more active part now, speaking on a regular basis?" a reporter asked.

"I don't know—I believe in letting nature take its course," the singer replied.

Governor's Wife Backs War

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—The wife of New Jersey Gov. Richard J. Hughes said Friday she felt her reaction to an emotional outburst against the Vietnam War by Negro singer Eartha Kitt at a White House luncheon was "typical of the majority of Americans."

Mrs. Betty Hughes, one of 50 white and Negro women attending a luncheon given by Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, to discuss crime in the streets, rose to defend the nation's Vietnam War effort after Miss Kitt asserted that young people were "rebellious and taking pot" because they were angry about the war.

"I feel morally obligated. May I speak in defense of the war?" Mrs. Hughes said as the rest of the women sat in stunned silence at Miss Kitt's remarks.

Mrs. Hughes, whose first husband was killed in the service and whose oldest son served four years in the U. S. Air Force said no young man wants to go to war, but they will go when the country needs them.

"I will kiss them goodbye and I will feel that this is our contribution to our country," New Jersey's first lady said.

Hughes, a Democrat who is a staunch supporter of President Johnson and his Vietnam policy, is recuperating from eye surgery at Morven, the executive mansion here. He said he was "very, very proud" of his wife for the way she spoke up.

Mrs. Hughes said she thought the sentiments she expressed were "fairly typical" of the way the majority of Americans feel.

"I just felt that someone had to speak up for the average American," she said. "The average young American boy doesn't want to go to war and his mother doesn't want him to go. But if he has to, I believe America is worth it."

The Hughes have 10 children, including eight sons. The governor, a widower, and Mrs. Hughes had nine children between them when they married.

Standardized Testing Program in the Warren County School District

Scientific measurement has become one of the most valuable tools of education. This technique serves the teacher, the principal, and the guidance staff as an aid for evaluating readiness, attitudes, interests, aptitudes, and achievements of pupils. In offering aid to young people who must choose educational and vocational paths from several alternative possibilities, one needs a way of discovering the kind of person with whom he is dealing, his quality of thinking, likes and dislikes in vocational and avocational areas, extent of achievement, and capacity for achievement. Such a tool is a standardized testing program.

Warren County School District has established a program that fits the needs of the students of the district. This program is directed towards achievement assessment at the elementary level and special aptitudes and interests at the secondary level. Additional tests, required for admission to colleges, are administered to senior high school students.

The real value of a standardized testing program lies in the use that is made of the results. Only those who are familiar with interpretation of test results should evaluate the test scores, as there is a general tendency to read more into a test score than actually exists.

The only valid reasons for administering standardized tests is for the direct benefits to the student involved. Test results may be used to compare the individual student of the Warren County School District with his counterparts on a national basis — how does his score compare with students in similar grades or subjects on national norms? How does he compare with former students in Warren County. With this information teachers and administrators may alter programs to fit the needs of a student, a school, or all schools of the district.

Standardized test results should be classified as "indicators," not "gospel fact." These results become a part of the overall evaluative data for each student. This information guides educational programs at all grade levels and may be used to inform the student of specialized programs in the secondary schools which are indicated for this area of probable success.

All parents should be concerned with this program. We encourage you to contact the guidance personnel in the high schools or the building principals of the elementary schools to gain more information concerning how you may use this information secured through this program to help the students of your family in their school life.

Social Security And The Clergy

BY LEWIS EPSTEIN
(Last in a Series)

Income received from the ministry will automatically be covered by social security under the new social security amendments.

Until the 1967 change in the law, a member of the clergy could be covered under social security under an individual, voluntary arrangement; if he wished social security protection he signed a form stating that he wished his income from the ministry to be covered. He then paid a portion of his salary as his social security contribution on the basis of that of a self-employed person.

As of January 1, 1968, however, income from the ministry will be covered automatically on the same basis as that for other wage earners and self-employed persons, unless the clergyman has objections based on conscience or religious principle.

As under the old law, a clergyman covered by this provision reports his income and makes his tax contributions as if he were self-employed, even though he may be working as an employee. He will pay his first social security taxes on income from 1968.

The new provisions do not apply to those clergymen who elected coverage under the old law. They will continue to be covered.

If a clergyman who had not already chosen to come under social security before 1968 does not wish social security coverage he must file an application for an exemption and a statement that he is opposed to receiving social security benefits or other public insurance based on services as a clergyman, by reason of conscience or religious principle. The application must be filed with the Internal Revenue Service by April 15, 1970; unless he enters the ministry in 1969 or later, in that case he will have until April 15, of the second year after the year in which he became a clergyman to request exemption.

The new provision does not affect members of religious orders who have taken a vow of poverty. As before, they are not covered by social security. For further information about social security for clergymen, ask at your social security office for leaflet SS-9.

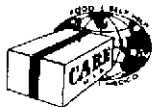

The word "salary" comes from ancient Rome. Soldiers were paid "salarium" or salt — a commodity precious enough to serve as money.

says AAA

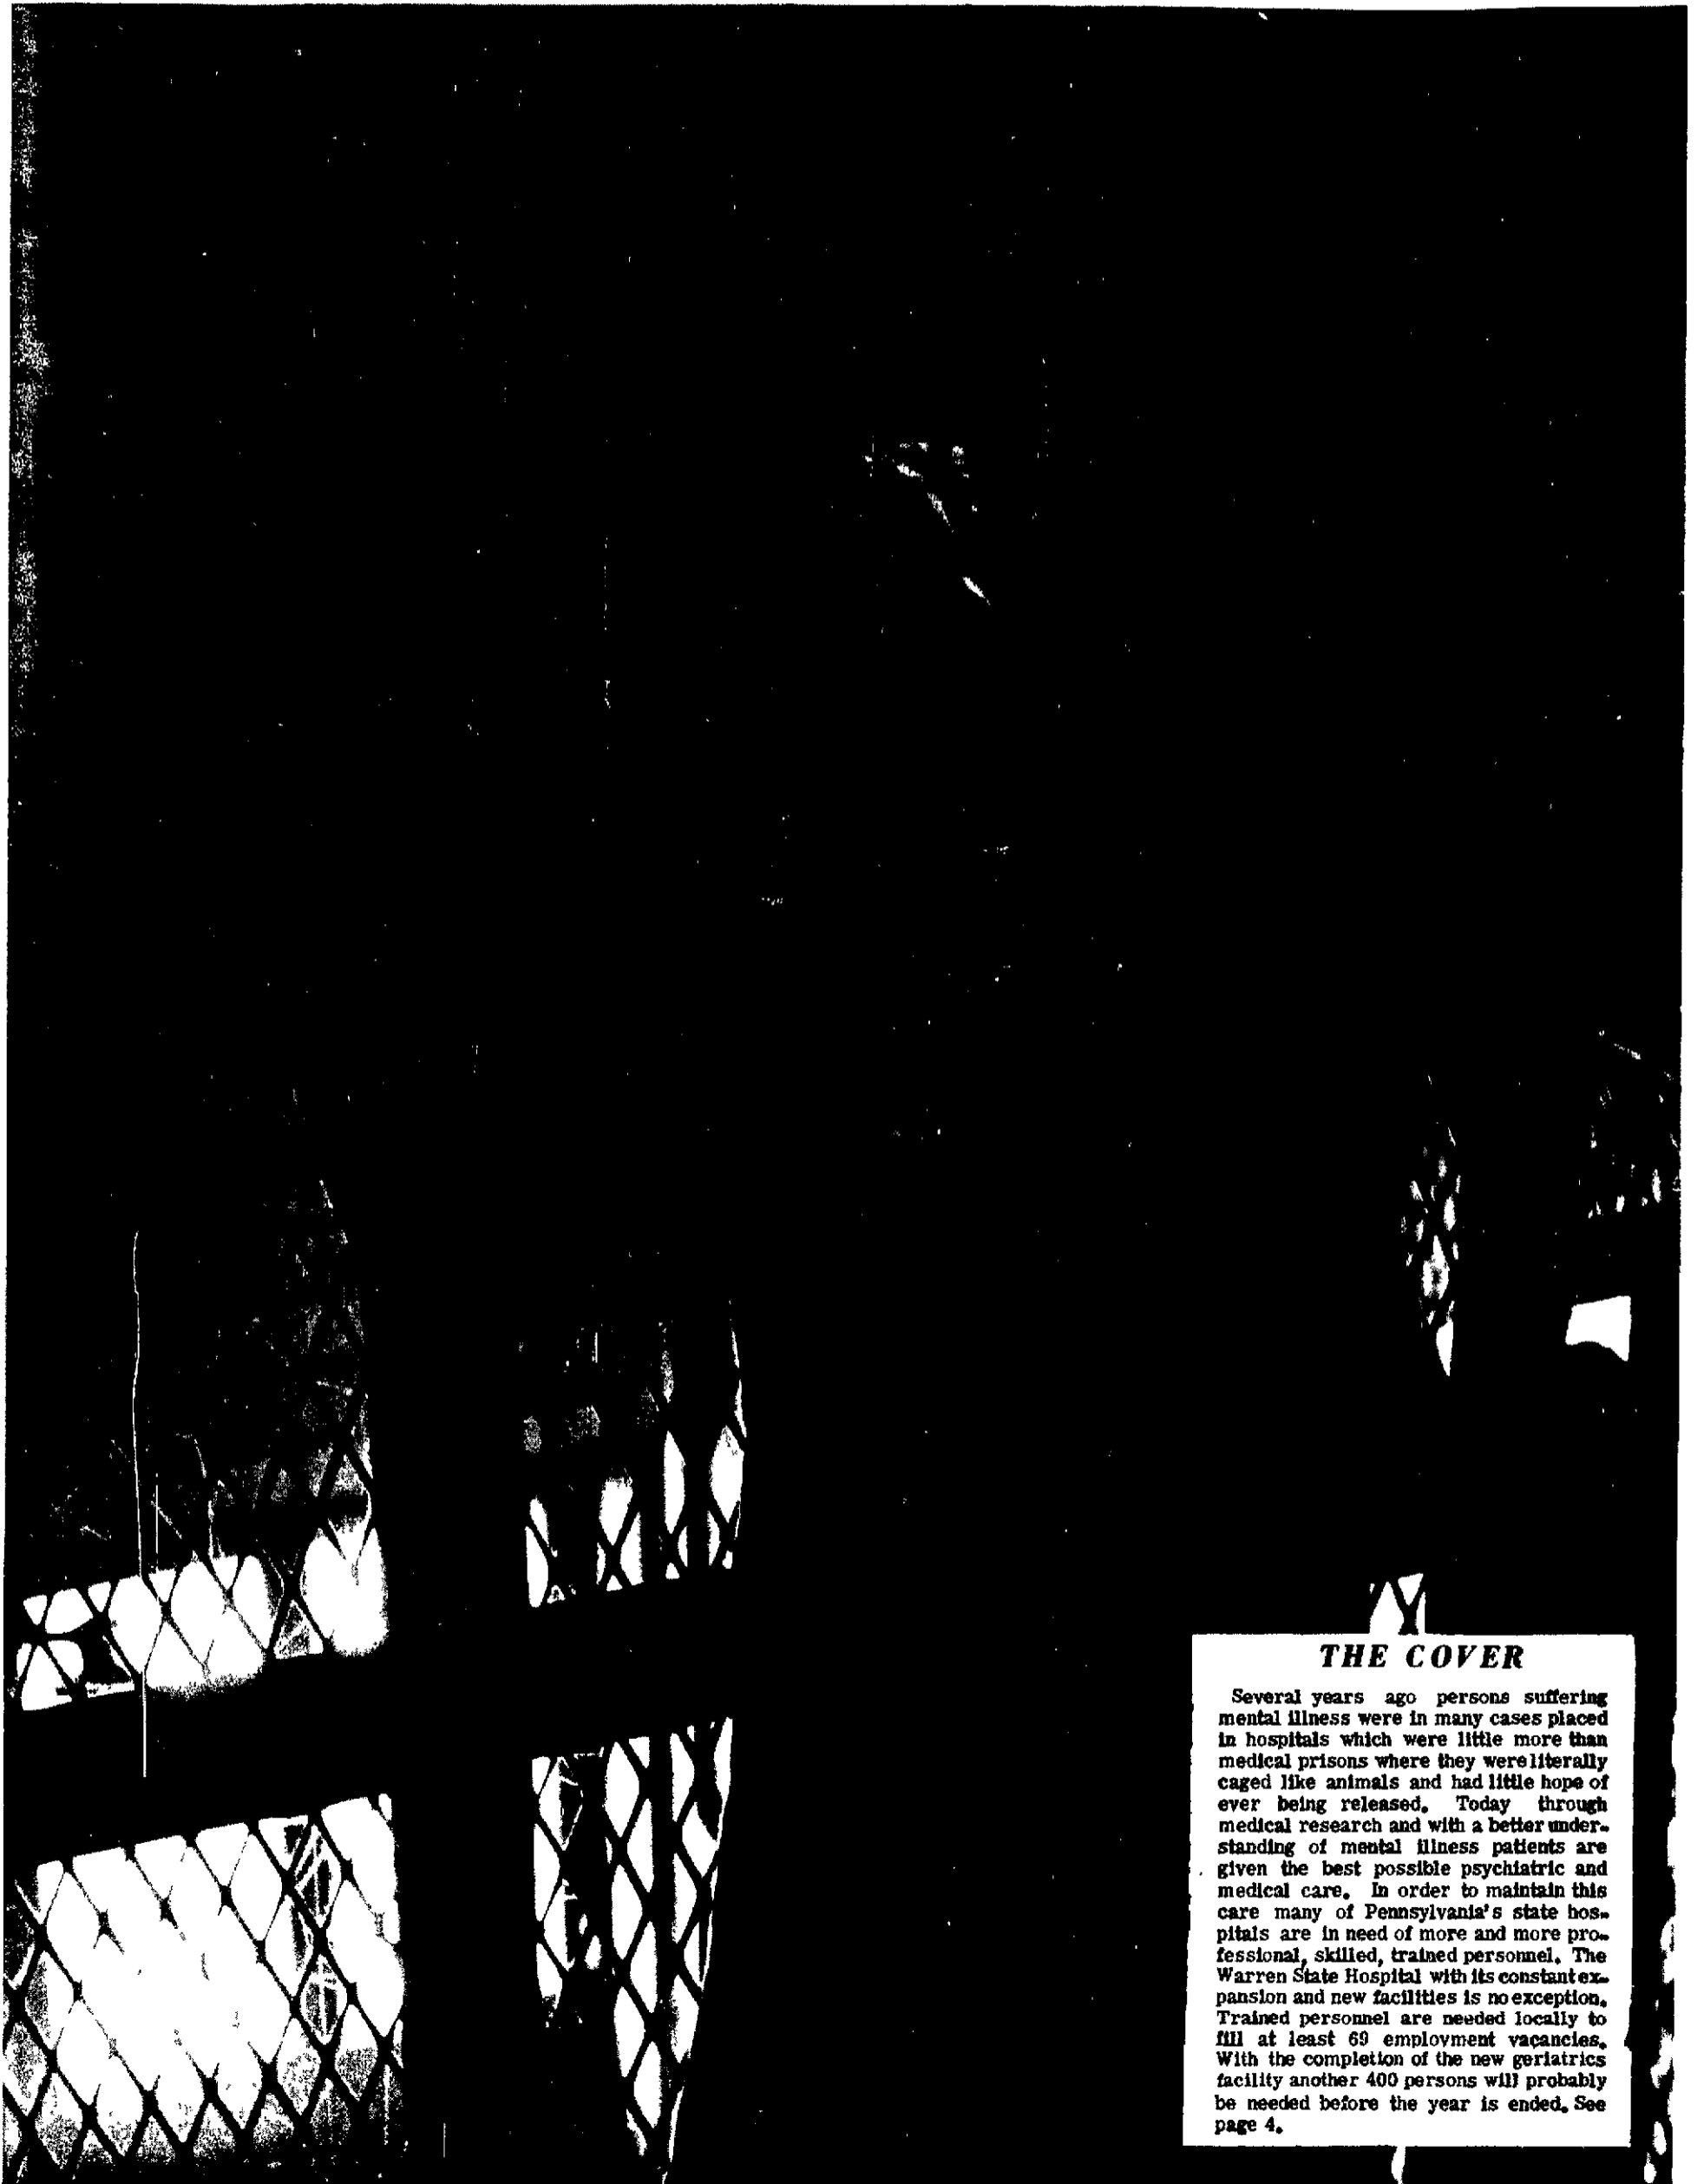

You can save a lot of frazzled nerves and wasted tire rubber if you learn to rock out when you get stuck. Start slowly in Low. When the car will go no farther ahead, shift rapidly to reverse. Back until the wheels just start to spin. Shift quickly back to Low. Repeat these actions, but don't try to roar your engine apart. Each move should take you closer to getting out of the hole.

THE COVER

Several years ago persons suffering mental illness were in many cases placed in hospitals which were little more than medical prisons where they were literally caged like animals and had little hope of ever being released. Today through medical research and with a better understanding of mental illness patients are given the best possible psychiatric and medical care. In order to maintain this care many of Pennsylvania's state hospitals are in need of more and more professional, skilled, trained personnel. The Warren State Hospital with its constant expansion and new facilities is no exception. Trained personnel are needed locally to fill at least 69 employment vacancies. With the completion of the new geriatrics facility another 400 persons will probably be needed before the year is ended. See page 4.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Diane (age 16) asked if she could spend the night at her girl friend's home. She and the girl have been very close for several years and they have slept at each other's homes many times in the past, so I gave her permission, without thinking much about it.

At 2:30 in the morning I got a call from the juvenile authorities. Diane was picked up in the alley behind her friend's house. She was wearing a silk nightgown and had a blanket wrapped around her. Diane was with a boy I have asked her not to go with any more.

When I went down to the police station to get Diane I was so upset I couldn't think straight. They let her off with a scolding, but I took all her privileges away—dating, phone, friends, allowance.

Now I have found that she was there by accident. On one hand I feel I am being too strict. On the other hand, I didn't raise my daughter to be in the alley at 2:30 in the morning. What is your advice?—DON'T KNOW

DEAR DON'T: I can't imagine what sort of accident would justify a 16-year-old girl being in an alley (in her nightgown yet) at 2:30 in the morning.

This girl needs more than restrictions. She needs counseling and I hope you will see to it that she gets it. Most high schools have excellent guidance programs and if a girl ever needed guidance, yours does.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Yesterday a friend was in our home and we were discussing food. Our teen-ager was present and he voiced a strong dislike for a certain casserole dish. The friend said it was one of her favorites and she couldn't understand why he didn't care for it since everyone she knew complimented her whenever she served it.

Tonight our family was invited to this friend's home for dinner. I could scarcely believe my eyes when she brought out that much-discussed casserole as her main course. Our teen-ager son said it looked good but he didn't care for any. The hostess's own children were served hot dogs, which indicated that they didn't care for the casserole, either. Our son was not offered a hot dog.

When we left, the hostess turned to me and said, "Someone slipped up when it came to teaching your son manners. Imagine turning down the main course?"

Do you feel the boy should have choked it down just to be polite?—EUREKA

DEAR EUREKA: Your son should have taken a small portion of the main course and left it on his plate. The hostess's manners left much to be desired, however. She should have offered the boy a hot dog when he passed up the casserole and said no more about it.

Italian Drops Hemline

ROME (AP) — Italian fashion designer Baratta dropped the hemline in his fashion show Wednesday.

It was quite a decided drop—covering the knee. It was the first definite move in a downward direction seen in these Italian couture shows.

Baratta dipped into his history book and went back for decades for his long-line, tailored redingote with inset belt effects placed at hip level.

Capes were long and faced in white. White is everywhere. Big checks in pale color were woven diagonally on white background, white silk blouses had scarf-tied necklines tossed over the collar of suit jackets.

Suit jackets were long and flared over skirts that echoed the same line.

Three-quarter lengths redingotes, full at the back, were a new coat look. The fullness was held in check by a narrow martingale. Near relations were the three quarter lengths spring coats shaped into high waists. They showed a fraction of the dark silk dresses beneath.

Baratta's hats were high-crowned homburgs, close-fitting cloches or floppy brimmed in smooth shiny straw.

Witty, pretty and petite was Patrick de Barentzen's fashion message Tuesday to women for the coming spring and summer.

A tiny, fitted top, an even smaller waist and a prettily flared skirt was the shape he showed for both day and evening.

The mood was ultrachic and citified. De Barentzen never designs for country lovers.

Waists have been creeping steadily back into the fashion picture over the past few months. De Barentzen finally clinched things with wide, rib-crushing belts on coats and high-riding waistbands on the skirt.

He broke up the "coat and little matching dress" partnerships that have been with us so long and substituted coats plus skirts.

This gave him a splendid opportunity to make some very romantic blouses to team with the separate skirts. Long-sleeved and high-necked, they came in dotted silks and frilly Swiss laces.

Blouses have been the revelation of these collections.

Frisled, ruffled and embroidered, they epitomize the new romanticism that is fashion's latest rave.

Sailor suits and sailor-collared coats at Galitzine were fresh as a salt sea breeze. Suit jackets were elongated and accompanied A-line or pleated skirts. Waists were lowered.

Philomel Has 'Facts And Fancies' Musical Program

In opening the Philomel Club program entitled "Facts and Fancies", Mrs. Fred Martin, chairman of the Wednesday afternoon meeting, referred to "This is Music", a book by David Randolph. The writer states that contrary to the opinion of the average music lover, composers from Beethoven to Mozart to Handel consciously employed devices which would produce the desired effects on listeners.

For the first section of the musical program Mrs. Francis Ericsson played "Prelude in E Minor" by Edward MacDowell. Her second selection was "Nocturne", her own composition.

Mrs. James Potter presented "Two Part Invention-No. 4--D Minor", "Little Suite--Bells, Sad News, Children at Play, and Slumber" by Roy Harris, a modern American composer.

Continuing the theme, Mrs. Harry Drivas, accompanied by Mrs. Potter, sang "When I Bring to You Colored Toys" by John Alden Carpenter and "Oh, My Beloved Daddy" from the opera, "Gianni Schicchi" by Puccini.

The program concluded with Mrs. Eugene Cease's interpretation of excerpts from "Carnaval" by Schumann.

In a brief business meeting Mrs. Charles Eaton, president, called attention to the Philomel broadcasts which take place on WNAE and WRRN on Monday evening at ten o'clock and Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Mrs. Thayne Sando, chairman, would appreciate more requests from interested listeners.

A report of the two concerts by Professor Detlef Kraus, sponsored by the Philomel Club, revealed that over 800 students of the Warren County School District attended the concert in Warren Area High School auditorium. Kraus closed the event with "Alla Turca" from Mozart's "Sonata in A Major". Approximately 550 people came out in below-zero weather for the formal evening concert. The all-classical program was well received by a most appreciative audience.

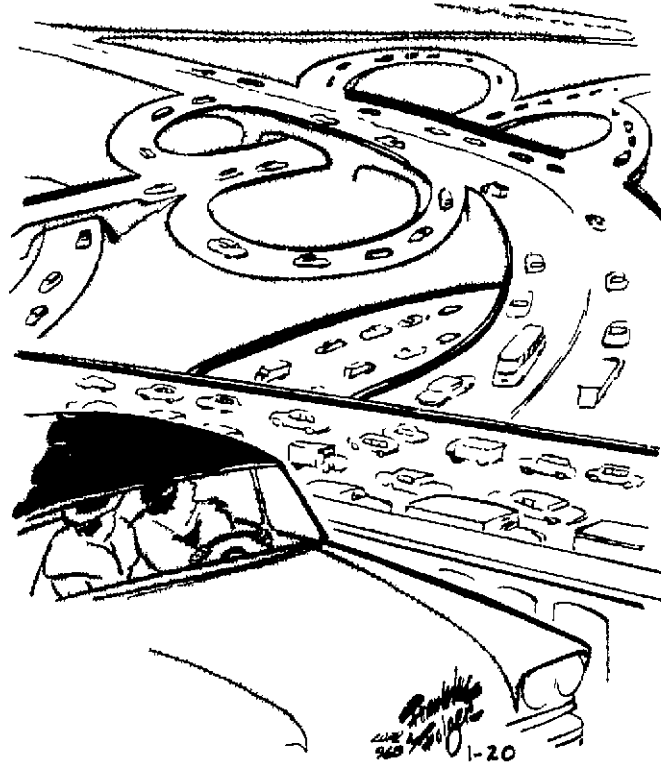

For the social hour following the program Mrs. R. W. Foster-Pegg was hostess chairman and her assisting committee included Mrs. Lewis Conroy, Mrs. A. B. Chiramonte, Mrs. Gail Cobb, Mrs. Paul Frazer, Mrs. Henry Kerlin, Mrs. Phillip Schwartz, Mrs. Kent Peterson and Mrs. James R. Valone. Mrs. Robert Israel and Mrs. William Yeager Sr. presided at the tea table which was decorated with a lovely bouquet of daffodils, ferns, and eucalyptus, flanked by yellow candles.

Program On Orient Given At Grace Methodist WSCS

The January meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service held in Fellowship Hall of Grace Methodist Church had a program on Japan. Mrs. John Husted presented a skit called "Clouded Questions," of "A Present Day In Japan." Those participating were Mrs. Husted, Mrs. Warren Carr and Mrs. John Berdine.

During the business meeting reports were given by Miss Ethel Kittner and Mrs. Kay Hartley. It was announced that cancelled stamps are still being collected for forwarding to the Washington-Northern Idaho Council of Churches, Seattle, Washington. The council in turn sells them to stamp collectors and the money realized is given to the Church World Service, New York City. Nearly 100,000 stamps have been sent from the WSCS of Grace Methodist Church. The money raised in this manner helps to get U.S. Government surplus food to needy families and orphanages overseas.

Mrs. Ruth Rapp presided at the meeting and Mrs. Edmund Bimler had devotions on the theme "Living A More Abundant Life." It was announced that the thank offering will take place in February or March, and, that at the February meeting the Rev. Harold L. Knappenberger Jr. will show color slides on "A Trip To The Holy Land."

Mrs. Goldie Brownell and Mrs. Thelma Christensen were co-chairmen of the meeting and the Etta Devine Circle had charge of the social hour.

"Let's talk dry cleaning"

By Howard Waterfield

Stains are a lot more dangerous than skeletons in a closet. Leaving stains in clothing shortens the life of the fabric and makes cleaning more difficult. Using a hot iron on stained clothing...

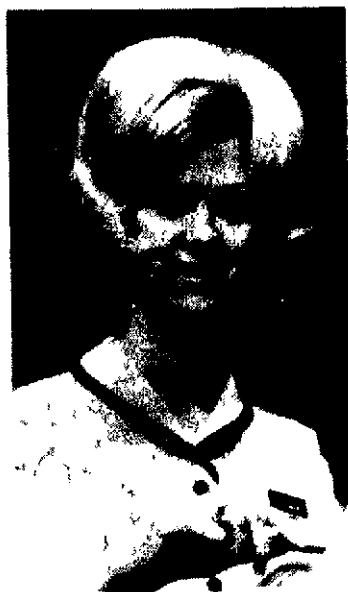

... as is often done with the idea of getting "one more wear" before cleaning... is not a good idea. The heat may "set" certain stains and cause deterioration of the fabric.

Best treatment for stains of any kind is prompt cleaning. Not "home treatment" but cleaning by experts who know just what methods to use for particular stains. It will make your cleaner's job easier and help him do a better job if you can tell him the nature of particular stains when you bring your clothes in. Remember... the sooner soil and stains can be removed from a fabric, the less chance they have to attack the material and cause weakening of the fibers.

Whether your clothing has the normal accumulation of wrinkles and soiling or special stains, you can be sure of expert cleaning care when you bring it to us.

New At Casa Bella

A new personality has been added to the staff at Casa Bella Beauty Salon; Mrs. Elaine Sabers, a new bride who has come to Warren with her husband, Ron Sabers, of the U.S. Forest Service.

A midwesterner, Mrs. Sabers graduated in 1962 from Dubuque Beauty Academy, Dubuque, Iowa, and her first position was in Cedar Rapids, Iowa at the famed Josefs. After a year, she advanced to the position of manager at the Petite Beauty Salon in Cedar Rapids, where she remained for two and a half years; her next position was in Dubuque at the Kut and Kurl Beauty Salon and Wigery, where, under the direction of Marie Vyverberg, the famed wig stylist, she worked for two and a half years, just prior to moving to Warren.

Before arriving in this community, Elaine completed a study course under the personal direction of Enrico Caruso and she has also trained under the famous Mark Traynor, Frederick Jones and Randy Rick, as well as Mr. Gordon of Revlon. Her background includes advanced courses in hair cutting and styling from Rex Tague of Rex's Hairstyling and Beauty Academies, and further private instruction in precision hair cutting from the internationally famous stylist, Peg Gaudian of Cedar Rapids, who has won numerous trophies in this country and Europe.

At Casa Bella, Elaine will be working with hairstyle creations and will have charge of the new wig and hairpiece salon recently added to the establishment. Further background in this particular field was acquired in studies with Joseph Paris; Enny of Italy; Vincent Napoli; Leo Passage; Amedeo Nazzaro; Frank Nothaft Jr.; Eric of Norway and Buddy Francis.

NO MORE LIFE-TIME DRIVERS LICENSES

HONOLULU (AP) Hawaii has eliminated its life-time drivers licenses for motorists starting Jan. 1, 1968.

All motorists in the state have to apply for new licenses, turning in the old licenses which were good for life.

Under the new law enacted by the State Legislature motorists under 25 and over 65 will have to renew their licenses every two years. Drivers between 25 and 65 will have to obtain new licenses every four years.

State Hospital in Need of Personnel

ADMISSION

One of the duties of a psychiatric aide at Warren State Hospital is the admission of patients. Jeffrey VanPelt, one of several psychiatric aides, admits a patient into a ward. Here at admission the personal affects, such as watches, rings and other personal property belonging to the patient, are taken and placed in safe keeping until the patient is well enough to leave the hospital. (Photo by Knight)

OTHER WORK

There are many kinds of work involved at the local hospital and not all of it requires working directly with the patients. Christina Sandblade uses her artistic talents to aid doctors and laboratory technicians in medical research and study. Christina is coloring, with transparent oil colors, a photograph to be used for study and research purposes. (Photo by Knight)

EDUCATION

Beside professional skill, nurses on the staff at the state hospital must also have an understanding of the patients they are going to treat. Student nurses, training at the hospital, get ample opportunity for classroom study and discussion concerning the needs of these patients. The student nurses are guided in their studies and discussions by experienced personnel capable of answering the countless questions which need to be answered during the training program. (Photo by Knight)

One of 19 state sanctioned mental hospitals in the commonwealth, Warren State Hospital, with its constant expansion and increasing facilities, is in need of trained, skilled and experienced personnel to fill a total of 69 employee vacancies.

The four categories, in which employment vacancies number the greatest include attendants, attendant trainees, registered nurses and physicians. Other positions are open, however, for psychiatrists, psychiatric residents, supervisors of ward service and assistants, psychiatric social workers, custodians, and professional and clerical personnel.

The local hospital presently lists 981 employees, 440 of whom are assigned to direct nursing care. In 1963 these positions came under civil service classification and require a civil service examination before positions can be filled. Some of the requirements needed to qualify an applicant for the civil service examination to fill these vacancies include a certificate of graduation from high school and the physical capabilities to perform assigned duties. In order to qualify for one of the positions a person must be morally acceptable and willing to train or continue training for the duties to which he or she is assigned.

The training programs offered to the accepted personnel are excellent. Beginning with a four-month basic training program, involving 150 hours of class-room study with the balance learning the functional duties of nursing and caring for the patient, the training can be expanded and followed through, until a person—starting for example as an attendant trainee—could quite conceivably acquire a supervisory position.

In general the basic training program offered at Warren State Hospital contains: study in basic patient care, patient understanding, ward teaching and patient centered care, involving conferences on actual patient cases, to mention only a few of the subjects covered.

Opportunities for continued college education, also exist for college educated professional personnel.

The present breakdown of employees at Warren State Hospital is as follows: superintendents and assistant superintendents, two; clinical directors, five; psychiatrists, five; other staff physicians, five; psychiatric residents, 11; dentists and dental assistants, four; psychologists and sychometrists, one; occupational therapists and assistants, nine; industrial therapists and assistants, 72; therapeutic recreators and assistants, 11; registered professional nurses, 64, with six part-time.

There are 352 attendants, custodians, supervisors of ward service and assistants; two psychiatric social workers; two other social workers; six other professional personnel; two stewards, assistant stewards and business managers; 60 clerical personnel and 295 other personnel.

The need for filling the 69 employee vacancies presently is more than just a casual concern, however with the completion of the new geriatrics complex, later this year the 69 employee vacancies now existing will jump another 400. This is the number of personnel needed to staff the new facility.

Civil Service examinations originally scheduled for January 17 were postponed due to poor weather. The tests have been re-scheduled for March 20. Anyone interested in making application should contact the personnel office at the hospital.

COMFORT

Patients suffering from mental disorders at the local state sanctioned hospital enjoy 24-hour-a-day care by professional and well-trained personnel. Miss Patricia Millard, registered nurse, comforts a distraught patient with skill and understanding. Many more nurses like Miss Millard are needed to round out the staff. (Photo by Knight)

Here are seekers after God. They are anxious and determined. They want in. Will those doors open? Is it any use to knock? Jesus said: Ask and it shall be given you; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened to you. Big locks and heavy doors will break open to those of great faith. Your child and mine need God, they need His church. God said to Joshua: As I was with Moses so I will be with Thee. Maybe He's here? He said, Suffer little children, and forbid them not to come unto me.

It May Shake You, But...

By FRANK R. CHURCHILL

First Presbyterian Church
Warren, Penna.

Have you ever been in a city where the early morning fog made your eyes water and smart from air pollution? Or where you've smelled the rivers that have been troubled by pouring oil on them? Or where you've seen a bit of the litter that hurts? That pretty well covers land, sea, and air—what's left?

A recent article by the Associated Press writer, Loudon Kelly, digs up another one. A well more than two miles deep, in fact. It's at the Rocky Mountain Arsenal near Denver, Col. orado. This one may even give you the shakes.

A Denver geologist, David M. Evans, has contended for more than 2 years that pumping of waste fluids into the 12,000 foot well at the arsenal north-east of Denver is triggering earthquakes. The well was completed in March, 1962, and wastes from the manufacture of chemical weapons were pumped under pressure into the well for disposal. In a few days, the FIRST quake ever measured on instruments in Denver occurred. The average citizen hasn't felt the 1,500 tremblers since, but two of them—last August and again in November—registered at or near 5.5 on the Richter Scale. These resulted in considerable property damage.

Evans explains it, saying, "as fluids were flushed down the well from the arsenal, pressure built up in the rocks below." His point is "the forced-in liquids lubricated the rocks and caused them to shift and slide. As a result, we have earthquakes."

Shakes your faith in humanity, doesn't it? Then, hang onto your faith in God. It can steady your nerves.

The prophet, Jeremiah, found his faith in humanity shaken, too, but adds, "blessed is the man who trusts in the Lord, whose trust is the Lord." Pollution of air and water and the littering of the land may have been unknown to Jeremiah, but he pinpoints an earlier contaminant, saying, "the heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately corrupt; who can understand it?"

Then, he pictures God's "glorious throne set on high from the beginning" as "the place of our sanctuary." He invites others to find their hope in God, as he prays, "but Thou, O Lord, will reign for ever; Your throne endures throughout all generations. Restore us to Yourself, O Lord, that we may be restored. Renew our days as of old."

We need prayer and cleansing. Let it begin in our hearts. Let the joy that begins there be shared with others. Once we give reconciliation with God and man our highest priority, we could be well on our way to resolving the difficulties in cleansing land, sea, and air, too. Maybe we could even alleviate some of the shaking of the earth we seem to have triggered. But whether that could be done, or not, isn't our ability to live harmoniously with God and our fellowmen—as well as our environment—worthy of first priority?

WARREN-FOREST COUNTY DELEGATE REPORTS

Con-Con Delegate Watches Local Government Group

By WILLIAM F. CLINGER JR.
Delegate to 25th Senatorial District

Indications as to how Pennsylvania's Constitutional Convention will ultimately resolve the major issues facing it, will begin to emerge shortly when the numerous sub-committees begin to make their reports to the standing committees. In recent weeks, these sub-committees have considered and debated at length the proposals introduced on the floor of the Convention by individual Delegates, which have been referred to them. Most of this work is completed and each sub-committee is now preparing a report which will reflect the consensus within the sub-committee on the issues with which the respective sub-committees are concerned. The recommendations of the sub-committees will of course be entitled to more weight than the individual Delegate proposals because they represent the considered opinions of from eight to fourteen men and women who have discussed and debated the problems involved for two to three weeks. The sub-committee proposals will in turn be debated by the full membership of the standing committees which consist of approximately fifty members apiece. Out of these debates will emerge the standing committee proposals which in turn will be presented on the floor of the Convention for debate, revision and amendment by the full Convention. Thus the fact that the sub-committee on Selection of Judges reports that it favors merit selection as opposed to direct election of judges, is certainly no guarantee that this recommendation will be accepted by the entire Convention. However, if such a recommendation is forthcoming, it will be an indicator of sentiment within the Convention.

Since the work of my sub-committee (Retirement and Post Retirement Services of Judges) has been substantially completed, I requested permission to sit as a non-voting member of the sub-committee on County Government within the standing committee on Local Government. I made this request because I am greatly interested in the form which County government may take as a result of the revised Constitution and am confident that the majority of the people in the 25th Senatorial District share this interest.

In addition to the sub-committee on County Government, the standing Committee on Local Government, is composed of the following sub-committees:

Local Apportionment, Home Rule, Local Finances and Structure and Organization and Annexation.

UNION PRESIDENT CRITICIZES GOOF-OFFS

HONOLULU (AP) The president of the Teamsters Union in Hawaii, Arthur Rutledge, has publicly chastised certain members of his union whom he calls "goof-offs."

Speaking in a union newspaper, Rutledge said there are too kinds of goof-offs. They are

"The worker who takes a day off the job whenever the notion strikes him, for no properly excusable reason

"And the worker who abuses the state unemployment compensation program"

Rutledge said the goof-offs make it difficult for the union to settle legitimate grievances among other workers

Whatever amendments of the Constitution result from the work of the Committee on Local Government will, of course, have a tremendous impact on all of the counties of the Commonwealth and specifically on the counties of Northwestern Pennsylvania.

I am particularly grateful for the opportunity to sit in as a member and participate in the debates of the County Government sub-committee which I consider to be the most significant of the sub-committees mentioned above. The sub-committee has wrestled with some of the thorniest and most complex issues within the whole Convention. The two most controversial issues with which it has dealt have been (1) whether or not we should provide that counties may adopt optional forms of government and (2) whether or not the Constitution should empower the General Assembly to provide inter-county or regional government for any or some purposes with approval of the voters of the local government units involved.

The present Constitution sets forth the existing form of county government and lists the county officers who comprise the county government. These officers are the Sheriff, County Commissioners, Treasurer, Prothonotary, Register and Recorder, Coroner and Surveyor. The Pennsylvania Bar Association and others take the view that the present Constitution is too inflexible for today's needs. They point out that each of the constitutionally listed county officers works independently of his fellow officers and that there is no over-all administrative control and that consequently the system does not lend itself to effective planning and administration. Consequently, these groups suggest that the listing of county officers be deleted from the Constitution and that the General Assembly be mandated to provide optional forms of county government, one of which options would be the present form of county government. The people of any given county would then be permitted to select the form of county government they wanted, such as a county administrator form of government or a county governed by a Council similar to the present Borough Council. Under this scheme, however, each county would be able to retain the present system of county government if it so desired.

The County Government sub-committee recommendation is a compromise between the present Constitutional provisions and the recommendation of the Pennsylvania Bar Association. The sub-committee's proposal retains part of the list of county officers in the present Constitution, but the Surveyor and Coroner are deleted from the list, the former because the members feel there is no longer any need for such an office, the latter because the sub-committee feels that the county should be able to adopt either the Coroner or the Medical Examiner System. The sub-committee's recommendation also removes the present county restriction against a County Treasurer serving more than one term.

In addition, however, the sub-committee recommends that the General Assembly be directed in the Constitution to provide optional forms of government which the people of any county can vote to adopt. Under the sub-committee's proposal, therefore, any county which does not elect to adopt a form of government from among the optional forms to be provided by the General Assembly, would automatically retain the present form of government, except that it would no longer be required to have a Surveyor, and could adopt a Medical Examiner procedure in lieu of having an elected Coroner and the County Treasurer would be permitted to succeed himself in office. The County Government sub-committee also intends to recommend to the standing committee that all counties be permitted to adopt a Home Rule Charter upon the affirmative vote of 60 per cent of the people in the county voting thereon. All counties adopting Home Rule Charters would also be permitted to exercise what are known as "residual powers". This means that any county adopting a Home Rule Charter could exercise all powers not forbidden to it by its own Charter, Constitution, or general law. What this provision in effect does is completely reverse a system which now exists in Pennsylvania. Under the present Constitution, a county, or any other unit of local government, for that matter, can only exercise those powers which have been specifically granted to it by the Constitution or the General Assembly. Under this approach, counties are forbidden to solve local problems in any given area unless specifically permitted to do so by the Act of the General Assembly. This proposal would permit counties which adopt Home Rule Charters to legislate in any area not specifically forbidden to them by a General Assembly. It is thought that under this proposal, counties would have much greater power and flexibility to deal with local and perhaps unique problems. Needless to say, it is the sub-committee's feeling that such a provision in the Constitution greatly strengthens the county as a unit of local government.

How any of these suggestions will fare in the standing committee, much less in the whole Convention, remains to be seen, but it seemed to me that the people of this District might be interested in what the County Government sub-committee proposes in these areas.

New York Previews Styles

by JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) -- If pants-wearing women are a threat to the masculinity of men, as social historians claim, then men can breathe easier. The threat appears to be over.

Pantaloon maybe. Or mini-pants. Or floppy at-home pajamas. But not gentlemanly trousers.

Although Tuesday was the seventh consecutive day of spring style previews for the nation's fashion press, few pants-covered legs strode the runways.

If girls must be boys this spring, they are expected to be toughies in bold, striped, belted skirts. And mannish coats with fedoras slouched over one eye.

Or they can be Edwardian dandies in fitted tunic suits, and brandishing walking sticks.

Pauline Trigere sent some of her manikins on stage in a pants costume called the snob -- a tunic coat over blouse and pants. Yet for the indecisive snob, there was an extra dress to wear with that coat.

Even Mister Pants, a sportswear dress house, digressed from a full show of long and short division to throw in a few dresses.

By contrast, there are dozens of ways girls can be all-girl this spring.

She can be as old-fashioned as a Gibson Girl. Designer Chester Weinberg's models took that direction at times, in printed mid-length dresses sashed at the middle and ruffled at the necks and-or hemlines. Often they topped all this with a heavy load of posies wrapped around huge brims.

Other designers have decided women should turn the clock even farther back to when suffrage was unheard of, to minute middles and ballooning skirts and corkscrew curls of the Civil War -- and the only female rebels were political.

Trigere, bringing womanliness to the surface, showed bias-cut costumes that slithered across the figure as simple sheaths, or swung free from the shoulders unless leashed by elasticized or wide plastic belts.

COST OF EDUCATING GOES UP

HONOLULU (AP) -- Hawaii's public school student teacher ratio has dropped in the past five years from 30.2 students per teacher to 25.3 students. And the cost of educating each student has increased in the same period from $344 in 1962-63 to $582 in 1967-68.

CONTRARY to the beliefs of diviners, ground water does not commonly flow in veins, domes or underground rivers. Ground water is the water that fills pores or cracks in sub-surface rocks, says the U. S. Geological Survey.

FIGHTING ILLITERACY WITH TV IN BRAZIL

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) Brazilians in the impoverished north-eastern part of the country will soon be given a big hand to fight illiteracy.

Working together, the Ministry of Education and the Pernambuco State University are planning to establish an educational television network to teach the rudiments of reading and writing.

In many areas of the Northeast publicly owned television sets already exist in public squares. They would be used to receive the programs.

A similar educational TV program launched in Rio de Janeiro several years ago, already claims about 200,000 viewers.

One of the country's most backward regions, the Northeast has been the target of special government efforts to improve the economy and educational level of the population.

Preliminary studies indicate that the program, which will cover all of the Northeast, will cost about $200,000.

BURGLAR WITH BRASS
EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP)
An unconcerned burglar, who had just looted Ray's Standard Service Station, was approached by two bystanders, one armed with a gun, and ordered to stop.

The sheriff's office said the flip-pant burglar, who took $40 in cash from a cash register and some change from a vending machine, replied:

"Go ahead and shoot me if you want to," and drove away in a station wagon.

WEEK'S PREVIEW

There are some outstanding programs scheduled for this coming week, on a variety of subjects. On Sunday afternoon, CBS has "Science and Religion: Who Will Play God?" and ABC has "Race to the White House" (not on Ch. 7) and an entertainment special, "One Night Stands," a repeat.

On Monday night, NBC begins a new series, "Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In" and ABC brings "Everett Dirksen's Washington." CBS has a special on "The Trial Lawyer" Tuesday night.

On Friday night, NBC has two specials, one a drama and the other dealing with politics. The first is "Flesh and Blood" with an outstanding cast and the second is an examination of the Republican Party in "The Loyal Opposition."

It's a great week for sports, too. Football, now a three-season sport, is not over yet as two games Sunday afternoon will prove. Both are conflicts between all-stars of the eastern and western divisions of the American and National Football Leagues.

Basketball dominates the sport scene, however, with games Saturday afternoon and evening, Sunday afternoon, and Tuesday night. There's a golf series on both NBC and CBS networks Saturday afternoon, plus hockey, bowling, and figure skating.

There also are some good movies scheduled for every night in the week.

IT'S ACADEMIC

The University of Buffalo Round Table, with its discussion panel format on current issues, problems and progress, moves to 1 p.m. on Sundays, starting Jan. 28 on Ch. 4, WBEN-TV Buffalo.

Moving into the 7 p.m. Saturday spot is a new weekly series, "It's Academic," which will test the knowledge of Buffalo area high school students playing on competing teams. From the advance publicity received, it appears that the program will resemble the GE College Bowl, except that its participants are high school students.

This series should prove popular with all area high school students as they test their own knowledge at the high school level as compared with those participating in the program.

HEY, COMIC FANS!

TV fans and readers of the Times-Mirror and Observer will have a ball watching "The Fabulous Funnies" on the NBC network, Sunday, Feb. 11 at 9 p.m. The program will feature the world's greatest comic strip artists and their creations, plus other popular celebrities.

Blondie and her boss, Chic Young, will be there, and popular comedian Carl Reiner. Col. Steve Canyon, intrepid air ace of the comics, and his creator, Milton Caniff, will be flying high, and Private Beetle Bailey has been ordered to report for TV duty with his commanding officer, Mort Walker.

Eight songs inspired by the funnies will be sung, including "Alley Oop" by the Doodletown Pipers, "Snoopy vs. the Red Baron" by the Royal Guardsmen, and "Little Orphan Annie" by Carl Reiner. Comedians Burns and Schreiber will play comic strip buffs in humorous routines.

PEOPLE & PROGRAMS

THREE TYPES OF PEOPLE watched and listened to the President's State of the Union message Wednesday night. The captive audience included those who agreed with him, those who disagreed with him, and those who had no where else to turn. The latter group probably was the unhappiest.

THE NEW VOICES OF WATTS is an NBC Experiment in Television series program. It will include poetry readings by poets of Los Angeles' Watts Area section, a poignant dramatization of two Negro children who find a school but don't know what it is, and a look at the dramatic workshop.

TOMORROW'S WORLD: FEEDING THE BILLIONS is an NBC special listed for Feb. 24. It will be a scientific look into the future in the area of food production, and the experimentation, invention and progress necessary to forestall the imminent food shortage in the world.

DEAR MR. GABLE is an NBC entertainment special to be seen March 5. His life, his loves, and his leading ladies will be portrayed, from his early years in Ohio, through his restless pilgrimage to the Pacific Northwest, and finally his 30-year reign as the "King of Hollywood."

ANDY WILLIAMS Open Golf Tournament will have the finals rounds televised on NBC-TV Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 10-11.

NATIONAL COLLEGE QUEEN PAGEANT is scheduled for Monday, June 17, on the NBC network.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR SATURDAY, JANUARY 20, 1968.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Neither procrastinate nor rush about in an attempt to get everything done at once. Take matters in turn, and WAIT OUT results where you should. An effective pace will be important.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Listen, but evaluate carefully. Much that is said now could be deceptive, but the truths are also available to you, and you can find your way to them.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Mercury, favorably aspected, stimulates your talents now, but guard against carelessness. Frequency of experiment plus practice gives polish and assuredness. Emphasize your innate originality.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—You may have more to accomplish or finish than anticipated, but do not let anything stymie you and your enthusiasm for the good things in life. Neither promise more than you can perform.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Beam in on this day with all the Leoite's brightness and verve for getting things done—and done in high style! Leave no room for misgivings, doubt.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Be careful about instructions (giving or acting upon); be receptive to creditable ideas. Work for a common good and goal. You should be able to accomplish much now.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Look in the attic of old thoughts and memories; some gems of ideas may be hidden there. Earnestness in all endeavors will bring fine results.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—THINK, then act. Give ear to intelligent suggestions. Be discreet in questions, writings; careful in agreements. Keep promises.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Ruling with a heavy hand could send you and your undertakings down the wrong street. There's little satisfaction in rifts, proving points at someone else's expense. Reason things out.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Avoid monetary risks and other foolish chance-taking. Guide all activities with a steady hand, watchful eye and determination to succeed in the conservative way.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—What is significant to you now may not be to others, so be careful how you perform your views and press for results. Pull up to goals inch by inch, insuring real security.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Transform the tedious and boring into the interesting; it is within your power. And you need not go far afield for the tools. What is at hand awaits your appreciation.

YOU BORN TODAY have tremendous vitality, both mental and physical. You are always alert to new trends, and grasp opportunity eagerly. You usually are successful because you strive, never give up, are eager to achieve. But sometimes you tend to scatter energies in too many fields. You enjoy lively companions, are creative, may take up literature as a pastime or second career. Birthdate of: Mischa Elman, renowned violinist.

How to Keep Well By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

GROUNDWORK FOR HAPPINESS

Personality disorders among our senior citizens may be just as bothersome as the physical problems of old age. Emotional disturbances are not always dependent upon changes in circulation such as those that produce softening of the brain. They are traceable to how the oldster behaved during his earlier years. Men and women who have maintained a broad range of interests usually remain alert in later life.

In addition, it is easier to mellow with age if the young and middle years had been kind. Men and women blessed with good health as well as financial, emotional and spiritual security, tend to accept the declining years gracefully and make the most of them. But those who never could adjust to adversity or who become upset over trivialities, generally do not undergo a metamorphosis as they get older.

In other words, the groundwork for happiness during the golden years is laid long before. The art of friendship and good companionship are difficult to cultivate after age 50 or 60. This is unfortunate because it is at this time these traits are important. The younger generation should keep this in mind and do their best to prepare for the time when life centers more about companionship, rather than competitive and sex activities. Because this lesson is not learned soon enough, many individuals waste the early years of retirement trying to adjust.

We need organizations where the 50-year-old could go for an appraisal of his chances for happiness in old age. Such an agency might point out to a mother who is overly attached to junior why she ought to cut the silver cord and develop new sources of satisfaction from friends, books, and hobbies.

Parents who hammer away at how much they have sacrificed or insist upon a return of their investment will be disappointed. Unless this situation is corrected, mom and dad may be lonely in their old age when the children sever all ties of companionship as well as dependency.

TOMORROW: Numb Hands and Feet.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

THYROID AND HEART

E. T. writes: Could an overactive thyroid gland lead to a fatal heart attack?

REPLY
Yes. Thyroid overactivity increases the heart action and causes irregularities of the beat. Unless the disturbance is corrected, the heart may go into a state of failure.

BLOODSHOT EYES

G.R. writes: What causes redness of the whites of the eyes?

REPLY
Conjunctivitis, irritation due to a speck or other irritant, overexposure to the wind, and overuse of eyes are the most common causes.

DIAGNOSIS OF CYSTS

C.Y. writes: How does a physician determine whether a breast cyst is or is not malignant?

REPLY
The only sure way is to take out the cyst and send it to the laboratory for examination.

FOSTER GRANDPARENTS
CHICAGO (AP) Mrs. Florence Hepp, 70, a widow for 14 years with limited means, is one of 34 foster grandparents employed by the Commission for Senior Citizens to tend mentally retarded children.

Mrs. Hepp's charge is Valerie, 8, who has lived more than half her life in the Illinois State Pediatric Institute, a facility that cares for mentally retarded children.

Chicago's Foster Grandparents program, composed of men and women over 60 years of age, earn less than $1,500 annually. This income is supplemented by enabling them to work 20 hours a week for pay at the rate of $1.40 an hour.

The grandparents' role is to provide institutionalized children, dependent neglected children, or any children with contact with an older adult. Most are assigned two children.

Mrs. Hepp is pleased that Valerie has begun to smile when she sees her.
